

SOCIAL AND PERSONALS

Captain Guilfoyle and wife have returned from enjoying the holidays with their friends in barracks at Fort Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Du Shane Otstott gave a pretty and unique dinner at their home in Chicago, Wednesday, Jan. 13th, the occasion being the first anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Otstott, formerly Miss Ida Bonnell of this city, has no superstition about the number thirteen, as a description of this dinner party will show. The guests comprised the wedding party, and covers were laid for just thirteen. The circular table was decorated with groups of cut flowers, thirteen in each bouquet, while each plate was laid with thirteen pieces of silver. The collation was very elegant, and was served in thirteen courses. Those present were H. and Mrs. John C. Bonnell, Miss Martha Otstott, Mr. Frank Hill, Misses Elizabeth and Pearl Bonnell, Messrs. Tom Otstott, Shollenberger, Wood and Flood, Rev. Dr. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Otstott.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Imhoff entertained the members of the Hall in the Grove with an open meeting last evening. Dr. Lowrey gave a fine address. The guests spent the remaining time in conversation. Dainty refreshments were served to the guests before their departure.

W. F. Wiley of Minneapolis was in the city a few days this week.

The following ladies and gentlemen spent the evening Monday evening pleasantly with Miss Helen Narce: The Misses Grace Oakley and Henrietta Hollowbush; Messrs. Mattson Baldwin, Fred White and Raymond Welch.

The Bucyrus Mandolin Club held the Monday night rehearsal at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith. The evening was profitably and agreeably spent.

There is a startling rumor about town that the most enthusiastic members of the Pleasant Hour Club are attempting to get up a party for next week.

Miss Julia Anderson of Taylorville, Ill., who will be remembered as the guest of Miss Mae Burr several times, will be in Lincoln a few days next week. From here she goes to California to spend the winter.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Carl Funke entertained the whist club in a delightful manner. With a number of well contested games the evening was soon spent. The members present were Messrs. and Mesdames. A. G. Beeson, A. J. Green, L. C. Burr, C. L. Eurr, W. B. Hargreaves, R. C. Oulcalt, Capt. and Mrs. Guilfoyle.

Thursday at one o'clock, Mrs. D. A. Campbell gave a charming luncheon in compliment to Mrs. Parmallee of Plattsmouth, Neb. Mrs. Parmallee will be remembered by society as Miss Lillie Pollock. The luncheon was daintily served and the guests were given a most enjoyable time. Those participating were Mesdames C. E. Yates, J. A. Buckstaff, C. S. Lippincott, C. F. Ladd, R. A. Holyoke, G. H. Noble and J. F. Guilfoyle.

Messrs. Hasken and Torrington of Atchison, theatrical and musical directors, are in the city conducting the rehearsals for the Burlesque Circus to be put on by the Lincoln Light Infantry. Their show promises to be a great success, has many new and interesting features which these gentlemen have introduced, and threats are freely made that it will surpass in elegance the celebrated production of Powhatan.

The Cotillion Club will give their next party Wednesday, January twentieth, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Buckstaff. The lady members met yesterday with Mrs. Buckstaff to make favors.

Miss Anna Dick, modiste, has moved her rooms to 1318 O street.

The goul sleighing of Wednesday brought about one of the merriest of bob-sled parties given for ages. Every available inch of the big four horse sleigh was more than occupied. The conversation and songs were more or less interrupted with such remarks as "Can't you give us more room?" or "Whose feet are these?" "Who's got all the robes?" The discomforts with a breakdown only added to the pleasure. The vocal selections were accompanied by a few dozen tin horns. Those participating in the ride were the Misses Henrietta Hollowbush, Sadie Burnham, Florence Farwell, Mae Burr, Maude Oakley, Blanch Garten, Lucy Griffith and Olive Latta; Messrs. F. C. Cooley, J. H. Mallalieu, C. Y. Smith, F. W. White, W. C. Valentine, Homer Honeywell, W. E. Clark and M. H. Baldwin, with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Marshall as chaperons d'honneur.

Mr. Harry Reese was in Wahoo on legal business this week.

The success of the banquet part of the twenty-first anniversary of Mr. Gregory's pastorate was due to Mrs. S. H. Burnham. Never were four hundred people fed more quickly and satisfactorily than on Monday evening. A line of young men stationed on the stairway between the dining room and upper rooms passed up the trays containing tiled plates and later ice cream and cake. The coffee was made and served in the upper rooms. Within an hour the people were served and the plates were gathered up and put away. The arrangements which had been made beforehand secured this result and the credit should be given to Mrs. Burnham who was the director general of the whole.

Mrs. Harriet S. McMurphy of Omaha spent Tuesday evening and Wednesday in Lincoln. She read Tuesday evening a paper at the annual meeting of the State Historical society on "Nebraska Women in 1855." Mrs. MacMurphy has organized a School of Household Economics in Omaha to which school the Womans Club have given the use of their rooms, and in which is being instructed at present a class of young girls selected from some of the schools of the city in the principles of cooking and home making. The expenses of this tuition are being paid by the Department of Sociology of the club. Mrs. MacMurphy is also arranging for courses of demonstration lectures in Household Economics in various towns throughout the state.

A pleasant affair was the Kensington given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. R. J. Green in compliment to her mother, Mrs. Miller of Lafayette, Ind. With such a charming hostess, the time was spent most agreeably with needlework and conversation. Mrs. Miller came before New Year's and expects to make a two months visit with her daughters.

A very pretty wedding was that of Miss Jennie Watson's, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Watson, and Charles Beghtoll of Trinidad, Colorado, which occurred Tuesday at twelve o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on L street. The decorations were extremely beautiful. Pink was the prevailing color. Carnations and La France roses of that color intertwined in garlands of smilax was used artistically on the curtains and chandelier and as portieres. A bank of palms was arranged in the south end of the parlor, covering the entire space, before which the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Hindman. Miss Lelia Watson played the Mendelsohn wedding march for the bridal party. Miss Beghtoll of Holdrege, Neb., a sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid and Mr. Hufford of Holdrege was best man. The little flower girls, Miss Hazel Moore, a niece of the bride, and Miss Alice Kate preceded the party carrying baskets of pink roses. The bride wore a white silk gown which was beautiful for its simplicity. It was trimmed in chiffon pearl passementerie and lace. She carried bride roses. Miss Beghtoll's gown was a delicate pink silk trimmed in lace and chiffon. The flower girls wore dainty white gowns. A delicious wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Beghtoll took the 6:05 p. m. train for Holdrege where they remained two days.

A reception was tendered them by the groom's parents. Friday they started for Trinidad, Col., their future home, and where Mr. Beghtoll is prominent in both the social and business world. Miss Watson has always lived in Lincoln; she is a pretty girl and has a host of friends who wish her happiness in her new home. Thirty friends and relatives were present among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Michener of Beardstown, Ill.; Mrs. Kate and daughter Alice of Audubon, Iowa, a sister of the groom; the Misses Beghtoll of Holdrege, Julia Boehney, Grewell, Nellie Grewell, Hazel Moore; Messrs. Carl Beghtoll, Hufford; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ware of Wymore, Neb.

During the past week the men of the First Congregational church have organized a club to take charge of the evening services at the church. This plan has been adopted with great success in the east and is being tried for the first time here. Tomorrow evening the club will furnish a special musical program. The Hagenow String Quartette will render a number of selections, assisted by the church choir, soloists and organ. Admission will be free but a voluntary collection will be taken at the door.
