ety because of the invitations from fraternities would receive great benefit from the literary society and the latter would respond by a more vigorous growth and interest to the inspiration of their work and presence. Ben. C. Mathews, '95, treats the period from 1890 to 1896. With the increase in undergraduates to over 7500 and the multiplication of fraternities, the Palladian society has held its own but it can no longer dictate university politics and fill the staff of the Hesperians as in the first half of its history, but so long as the Palladian spirit holds out to burn the society will be strong in member and character. The greeting, which has a Norse cadence and is probably by Miss Bullock, is herewith reprinted:

GREETING.

This is our festal day. Here let us gather Singing our greeting.

Here let us welcome those shadowy men-ries;

Visions so fleeting,

Seeming to call and beckon us backward; While we are speedin.

What is the message they bear in their bosoms?

Hearken their greeting!

"On," they cry, "Onward! Stay not in thy speeding!

Thine is today.

We are but voices of olden time visitors, Tracing our way.

Ever before you a new pathway lies, Storms you must weather— e can but cheer you as onward you go Striving together."

The book is edited by Miss Bullock. It is an interesting account of a small vigorous society, started in a small school which has gradually been overshadowed by colleges but has not lost vitality.

THE SUNRISE OF THE POOR.

A darkened hut, outlined against the sky. A forward-sloping field, some cedar trees, Gaunt grasses, stirred by the awakening Breeze,

And nearer, where the grayer shadows lie, Within a small, paled square; one may descry.

The beds wherein the poor first taste of ease,

Where dewy rose-vines shed their spicy lees

Above the dreamless ashes, silently.

A lonely woman leans there, bent and gray, Outlined in part against the shadowed hill.

In part against the sky, in which the day Begins to blaze—O earth, so sweet, so still!

The woman sighs, and draws a long, deep breath:

It is the call to labor, not to death.

BURLINGTON ROUTE PLAYING CARDS.

Those elegant cards of the very best quality only 15c per deck. For sale at B. & M. Depot or city ticket office, corner Tenth and O streets.

We have purchased (because it is just the thing we have needed) the Columbia Cyclopaedia Library, consisting of the Columbia encyclopedia, which is also an unabridged dictionary thirty-two volumes of convenient size neatly bound, four volumes of the annual cyclopaedic review, four volumes of current history for 1896, one Columbia atlas and the neat convenient revolving oak case with glass doors. From the evidence obtained we find that some part of this work is placed in the best private and public library in this country an abroad, for the reason that they cover a field relative to the past, present and future progress and achievements of the human race not attempted by others. The plan is original, and the work throughout is carefully and ably written.

Current history contains 220 pages, is issued two months after the close of each quarter, this length of time being taken to reduce all information received to be an absolutely reliable and authentic basis. If these are kept on file, this magazine will prove a permanent and invaluable record of all important movements in political, social, religious, literary, educational, scientific and industrial affairs.

The magazine will be indispensable to all people who have encyclopedias, as it will be needed to keep these works up to date. To those who do not own encyclopedias it will be doubly valuable as their source of information is more limited. About March of each year the four volumes of current history are bound into one volume, known as the Annual Cyclopaedic Review. There are now four of these bound volumes covering years 1892-3-4 and 5. The work has for endorsers and subscribers in this city and state such people as Mr. Gere, editor-in-chief of the Lincoln State Journal, Hon. Joe Bartley, state treasurer, Hon. W. J. Bryan, Mr. Miller, editor of the Northwestern Journal of Education, Hon. H. R. Corbett, state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. R. E. Giffen.

Every reading person has felt the need of brief summaries of current topics and events. The daily, weekly and monthly periodicals and papers may furnish data sufficient, but the labor of collecting and digesting it is frequently out of proportion to the result obtained. A most satisfactory summary may be found in the quarterly journal has been of invaluable service to the library covering a field that no other attempts.

Subscription price, $1.50 a year in advance; bound volumes, cloth, $2.50; half morocco, $2.50; library sheep, $2.50; embossed sheep, $3.50; three-fourths person, $4. Complete library from $36. to $108; cases from $6. to $44.

The complete library is sold on monthly payments to suit purchaser. City subscriptions will be received at the Courier office for a limited time only, or at Mr. H. W. Brown's book store, direct all other correspondence to C. S. Borum, general agent Lincoln Neb.
