"A man often says: "My business is different from any other kind; it's almost impossible to advertise my business." That remark shows a misunderstanding of what advertising is. It is making a business known to those who ought to know it. This can be done with any business.

Social and Personal

From California to New York the story of Mr. and Mrs. Lansing's attempts to recover the gifts of affection is being told in the newspapers. At least fifty editors have written humorous and original editorials concerning the search officer who was never sent and the writ that was never issued and the interview between the officer and the young lady that never took place. Nothing so good, journalistically considered, has come out of Lincoln since the "Button" story. It shows how hard up editors are for something to write about that the people will read. There is a second and a third and even a fourth moral attached to this Jack and Jill story in which both broke their crowns. Nobody knows who first told the story to Mr. Fairfield of the News. Having once reached him it was forever too late to keep it out of all the newspapers in the country. The tattling friend, more false and faithless than "fleeing Clarence," is to blame for most of the embarrassment and suffering which the notoriety has caused both families. No one connected with a newspaper, unless he was a personal friend of the Lansings or the Oakleys or possessed of a supernatural delicacy, could refrain from writing up the story with all ornamental accessories. The moral is to cultivate newspapers with gifts, invitations and tips of all kinds so that in case the gaucherie of other acquaintances should get you into trouble the honor of your newspaper friends can be relied upon to get you out of it. In this cultivation it is not safe to leave out the humblest penny-a-liner in the city for from the editorial writer to the devil they have a fox-hound scent for a good story. The only other alternative is not to know the progression and not to know or be called upon by any one who does know them. Both courses are difficult but the former is recommended as fairer to everybody concerned. The other two morals are too obvious even to serve to prolong a midsummer editorial.

Gen. Victor Vifquain, consul general at Panama, together with his wife and two daughters, arrived in the city Monday evening and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer. They are spending a few days with their son on his farm near Crete, after which they will return to Lincoln for the remainder of their stay. The General has a two months leave of absence, the first in four years. General and Mrs. Vifquain brought back with them the body of their daughter who died two years ago. She did not wish to be buried in a foreign soil and her body has rested in a vault until the time when the authorities would allow it to be moved. On Tuesday the body was placed in the Catholic cemetery near Lincoln. General and Mrs. Vifquain have the social gifts and graces of their native land and they return to Lincoln sure of a welcome and sympathy from many friends. Ungrateful complaints of Nebraska because of the hard times everywhere, make the words of appreciation with which the Vifquains speak of their Lincoln home, seem doubly sweet. Charles Vifquain has been appointed by the president acting-consul during the General's absence.

ed by Misses Dempster and Hughes at their home, 1409 Q street, Monday evening. Those present were: Misses Shively, Olive Wallace, Rena Chapel, Pinkerton, Curtis, Newbranch, King, Shean, Bertie and Jennie Hughee, Anderson Gertrude Hughes and Dempster; and Messrs Almy, Evans, McGuire, Shreve, Kinton, Ned Abbott, Keene Abbott, Ruby, Hughes and Hauzly. The evening was pleasantly passed with various games and amusements, after which refreshments were served. All joined in wishing Miss Dempster a pleasant summer vacation at her home in Geneva, where she will go in a few days.

Dr. T. L. Lyon has been attending the association of agricultural colleges and experiment stations in Minneapolis. Dr. C. R. Richards has returned from the association. Dr. Lyon is enjoying the coolness of the Minnesota lakes.

Mrs. Lau and Miss Helena sailed the first part of the week for America. They bring with them the body of H. P. Lau who will be buried here. Mrs. Lau is a gentleman with the home instincts of her German ancestry. She has much reserve power and although not accustomed to manage large affairs there is no doubt but that she will direct with sagacity the affairs of the large estate left in her charge. Mr. Lau has been an unconfessed invalid for years. He was a man of ability, quiet and reserved. He loved the seclusion of his family; the friends he had were old and tried. They have lost a friend whose like they can not find this side the water.

Peter Lau and Oscar Junge left Wednesday for New York to meet Mrs. and Miss Lau on their return from Germany with the remains of H. P. Lau.

Miss Emma Frow is spending a few days with Mrs. G. W. Bonnell at Manitou.

Chancellor and Mrs. MacLean have returned from their trip to the east recuperated and buoyant.

A number of Lincoln people attended the unveiling exercises of the Logan memorial statue at Chicago, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lowrey, Captain L. W. Billingsley and Mr. Joseph Bigger.

When the people you know leave town there are only the grubs left who neither give nor are given parties. Not until the opulent return from Colorado, Minnesota, Michigan, Iowa and the Atlantic Coast, and Europe will there be much to record. Then the affairs of the butcher, the baker and the society column maker begin to hum.

T. S. Allen went to Wabash Wednesday afternoon to attend the marriage of his sister Miss Elizabeth C. Allen, to Charles S. Murfin. The ceremony was performed on that same evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Nellie M. Richardson is visiting in Kansas.

Director and Mrs. Kimball gave a reception on Friday for Mr. Pierce the piano virtuoso. It was in the nature of a musical and although a trifle warm, the large company enjoyed themselves in the large rooms. Mr. Pierce is a brother of Mrs. T. E. Hartley and stands like hundreds of others, just this side of fame and fortune, very near the line but not across it.
