Married, on Wednesday, August 11, at the home of the bride's uncle Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kilpatrick of Beatrice, Miss Rays Kilpatrick to Mr. John Potter Cook. The ceremony was celebrated in the presence of only the immediate relations and closest friends, which is just as it should be. THE COURIER hopes that the day will come when wedding splurges will be as infrequent as they ought to be.

Mrs. C. F. Ladd will return in a day or two from an extended tour to Platts-mouth. Extended because Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Lat'a and baby Sarah left the city in a phaeton, stopping every few miles at a farm house where cousins or an aunt and uncle reside. In this way it took them a week to arrive at Platts-mouth, where there are still more kinfolk. Mrs. Ladd writes that they have had a delightful trip. She would not be able to write the adventures of a phaeton for lack of material.

Miss Olive Latta has returned from her trip to Wyoming. Mrs. Boler, her hostess, and Miss Latta were entertained at several of the comfortable ranches in the neighborhood. It is a trifle hard on everybody to come back into the vacuum of Lincoln society after the gayety and freedom of the summer vacation places. But just as soon as the heat gets it's fall notice to quit the summer people will return and society will be herself again.

Mrs. D. D. Muir and son Wilson will return to Denver tomorrow. Mrs. Muir expects to return to Lincoln some time in October.

Everybody remembers the lions at the Funke last spring. Adgie, the young Mexican lass, who had partially subjugated them, is now in San Francisco. The Examiner says that the cub, which occupied Mr. Zehrunge's window, is sick, fiercely sick. The notice says that when Adgie enters the room where the young lion is he endeavors to kill her and that she retreats with tears falling from her eyes. Which is all very pretty but not exactly characteristic of Adgie, who it will be remembered, was a brave un-sentimental, agile girl. She said the lions were afraid of her, not fond of her or any one. If a tear were in her eye because the cub was sick it was strictly for advertising purposes.

Mrs. F. A. Boehmer of Quincy, Ill., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden, who gave a garden party for their guest on Thursday evening. Mrs. Boehmer were residents of the city a few years ago and her friends and neighbors are very glad to see her again.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Stearns have returned from a visit in one of the cool summer resorts of Illinois.

Mrs. Frank Sheldon will soon return to New York accompanied by Miss Mae Burr, who will spend the winter with her aunt, occupying much of her time in the study of music.

Miss May Moore will be married to Mr. Joe Mallalieu in October. No one was surprised when the engagement was announced, since it has been im-pending for a year or more. They are sure they are right and now they are going ahead. By the friends, who know them as May and Mally, they are being congratulated with much warmth and heartiness. Miss Grace Oakley will be married to Mr. Joseph Walsh a little later in October. Joseph is a lucky name this season.

Mrs. Nash. Miss Stewart and her family are old friends of Mrs. Yates and Mrs. Hargreaves. Miss Stewart is named for the former.

Miss Grace Harrison of Beatrice will spend a month with Mrs. Frank Smith in Lincoln. She is expected in September.

Miss Marie Marshall writes enthusiastically from Lake Champlain, which is near Plattsburg, N. Y., where McKinley has been spending his vacation. "The court is where the king is," and Platts-burg is very gay with presidential fol-lowers and the officers of the Platts-burg barracks, only a few miles away. Miss Marshall's beauty and sprightliness have made her a belle in this gay court. Miss Sadie Burnham is in Kentucky and writes that the society is delightful, and begins whenever the sun goes down, but as long as he is in sight he has all his powers to himself. Mr. Mattson Baldwin, in Prophetstown, Ill., is as-suming a more and more beautiful, because a more willowy figure. Daily conscientious work on the pedals is cor-recting the only defect in an otherwise matchless form. He will come tripping back to Lincoln like Amelia Somerville, that "Merry little mountain maid." These three members of Lincoln society whose summer experiences have been referred to, are among the most active in society and their return will be the occasion of a festival.

Mr. Stockton Heth of Omaha was in Lincoln over Sunday.

Miss Grace Oakley gave a little sew-ing bee on Monday afternoon to Mes-sames J. Dorgan, Lew Marshall; Misses Mae Burr, Tukey, Farwell, Latta and May Moore.

Halsey and Willard Yates on Tuesday afternoon organized a picnic at Meadow-brook Lodge. Those present were: Mrs. Lew Marshall, Misses, Mae Burr, Tukey, Farwell, Hollowbush, Stewart of Ottumwa, May Moore, Stella Curtis, Lucy Griffith, Grace Oakley, Messrs H. and W. Yates, Lieut. Koehler, Mr. Keller, J. Letridge and Guy Hurl-but.

Halsey and Willard Yates and the two men from West Point who have been visiting the former, left on Wednesday night for Denver and the Colorado sum-mer play grounds. Lieut. Koehler goes to his first assignment at Fort Lowe near Denver.

The Lincoln Wheel club had a run Wednesday evening to Burlington Beach. The cyclists left the club rooms at 7:30, made a tour of the town and reached the Beach at 8:30. A steamboat ride was enjoyed by all, after which a number danced in the pavillion to the music of Miss Willoughby's orchestra. On the return to the city all of the cyclists were invited to the club rooms, where refreshments were served. About one hundred and fifty people were present.

Mrs. R. C. Van Cleave left Tuesday morning for Platts-mouth.

An interesting game of ball was played Wednesday evening between the Lincoln Light Infantry and the Fitz Gerald, Fitz Gerald's winning by a score of 10 to 7. Batteries—Ranger Fox, Spander; Toby, Kelly.

Mr. Frank Saunders has returned from a trip to the Pacific coast. He had a very pleasant time and takes his after-dinner cigar at Rector's with his accustomed satisfaction.

Married, in this city Tuesday morning, Miss Oella Stanfield of Bradshaw to Mr.
