Social and Personal

The following account of the wanderings of Mrs. Newman and her compagnons de voyage has been compiled from a letter from Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Newman's many friends will be able to welcome her home to Lincoln about the first of September.

After a year's absence, as the cards indicate, Miss Cora Fanny Newman, now Mrs. W. C. Thomas, will return to this city, accompanied by Mr. Thomas and Mrs. Angie F. Newman, about September 7. It is the unexpected which happens, so runs the proverb. Truly no prophet could have foretold such a denouement in August 1897.

Mrs. Newman, Miss Newman, Misses Corinth and Edith Crook, daughters of Chancellor Crook of the Wesleyan university of this city; Miss Gertrude Marquette, daughter of Hon. T. M. Marquette, former general attorney of the B. & M. R. R., left this city for a trip to Europe. The party had no definite itinerary. The Misses Crook expected to reach Berlin by November for a winter's study of German literature. Mrs. Newman was an American delegate from the National Council of Women to the International Council of Women, which met in Berlin, Germany, in October; also to the Social Purity Congress, which convened in Berne, Switzerland, the same month.

After a few weeks in London, Antwerp, Cologne, Heidleburg, Strasburg, Luzerne and Geneva, the party divided. The Misses Crook made a hurried trip to Rome, then went to Germany for the winter. They were still on the continent in July, when they were to meet their brother, Prof Crook, in Paris. Mrs. Newman, Miss Newman and Miss Marquette went to Paris from Geneva, then to the south of France and sailed with Dr. Henry P. Lunn's cruise on the yacht "Midnight Sun" for the land of the Pharaohs. They visited Naples, Pompeii, Vesuvius, Athens, in the ever-present glory of an undying past. Traversed its sacred retreats and breathed the military spirit of the oncoming strife, gazed upon the Stadion in its Pentelic beauty and rested in its groves of pepper and olive trees. Entered the Bosphorus, still stained with Armenian blood. The American White Squadron lay at rest (?) in the Dardanelles and other English gun boats breathed protection, which never crystallized. Along the coast of Asia Minor, where every atmosphere is vocal with the death struggles of centuries. Smyrna and Ephesus accentuated the might which had been, and Diana is still the silent witness of her imperishable glory.

Jerusalem—the land of song and the cruel story of Saracen and Crusader, the bitterest disappointment to the Christian who finds little more than the "Mountains round about Jerusalem" to satisfy his research. Father Time has used deft, swiftly his spade, and the ancient city lives in one's dreams and in unsightly excavations—Alexandria, Cairo, the Nile, the pyramids, ancient Memphis and Heliopolis, all tell of life, struggling with Death, with Death too often to victor.

A stormy sea—such to Naples, where the cruise ended. Three weeks—for Sorrento, the island home of Marion Crawford, the Blue Grotto, Puteoli and Burae of Paul's and Nero's diverse baptisms. Rome—splendid, uncongenial, born anew of its second death. Florence—who that has read Romola does not know and love Florence. Venice—the Adriatic bride clad in her wedding vestments. Milan—all beautiful; but its Forest Cathedral and Da Vinci's "Last Supper" enrich one's faith in her immortality of fame. The lakes of lovely Switzerland, reflecting in their calm waters the smiling face of Liberty and Tell's. Genoa and Columbus, Nice and Monte Carlo—inseparable in fashion, fatal in temptation. Spain—rare Castilian scenes. Pau and Biarritz, Hendaye—far famed watering places of the Pyrenees; the court, Paris in her summer radiance. London—the climax of vision, its jubilee holding within its area more crowned heads and courtly trains than the world has hitherto ever gathered together.

Here the tour ended and another tour begun. As companions in travel in Egypt, Switzerland, Spain, France, were the young men whose final claim has deprived Lincoln of Miss Newman and Miss Marquette. Both professional men; Mr. Thomas our people will soon have the privilege to greet; Captain and Mrs. Stoney will go to the Island of Malta for a time and reach Nebraska later.

The wedding ceremony and festivities were celebrated jointly, the cards issued jointly and the paths of these Lincoln wanderers are still amid the deep waters.

A coincidence! What is destiny? The following notice was taken from the Peoria Herald of August 6th.

A pretty home wedding occurred yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Hall on High street.

The bride was Mrs. Hall's sister, Miss Fannie Shroyer, formerly of Seattle, and she became the wife of Mr. William H. Gerhart, a prominent druggist of Lincoln, Neb.

The house was tastefully decorated with sweet peas for the occasion. Miss Ora Hall, in white organdie trimmed with blue ribbons, and Miss Alice True, in white organdie trimmed with pink ribbons, were the attendants. The bride wore a becoming gown of white organdie made over white taffeta and carried brides roses. The Episcopal marriage service was impressively read by the Rev. E. T. Munns. After the ceremony the wedding supper was served and at 8 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Gerhart left for Lincoln. They received many beautiful gifts.

The guests were only members of the immediate family and included Mrs. Shroyer, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Shroyer and daughter, of Chicago; Mrs. John Giddon True and daughter, of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fredenberg, of Ottawa; Mrs. James H. McClanahan, of Minneapolis; Mr. E. N. Shroyer and daughter, of Pontiac, and Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hall.

Ernest A. Wiggernhorn came up from Ashland Sunday, for a few days visit at the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house.

Miss Martha Hutchison of Ashland, is spending the week with her friend Miss Joy Webster.

A. E. Hargreaves and son Richard, returned from New York City Saturday.

Miss Cline of Chicago, is the guest of Miss Addie Whiting.

Archibald Haecker of the State Farm, is visiting at his home in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Warfel are spending a few weeks with friends, in Indiana and Illinois.
