

Mr. ETIENNE GIRARDOT, with "Miss Francis of Yale."

THE THEATRE

"Miss Francis of Yale," a rattling farce, full of fun, the result of ingeniously devised situations and novel complications written by Micheal Morton and which achieved a long run in New York and Chicago comes to the Oliver Friday, March 29th, with its original cast of comedians embracing Etienne Girardot, the man who made the whole civilized world laugh at "Charley's Aunt" and who will appear here in "Miss Francis of Yale." Breton Thorpe, under whose direction "Miss Francis of Yale" is presented, is an English manager of repute who is anxious to succeed in America, and with this end in view, has engaged a remarkably strong company to present the comedy. The company to be seen here is the original one and includes Messrs Raymond Capp, Geo. F. Farren, Louis Grisel and the Misses Lavinia Shannon, Fanny Young, Gertrude and Idalene Homan and others.

ROLAND REED.

The popular favorite, Roland Reed appeared in as a star. The comedy is will make his appearance in this city, at the Oliver, Monday, March 28th. Mr. Reed returns with a new comedy that has proven one of the big hits of the season, crowded houses being the rule everywhere. The play enables the comedian to be seen to the best advantage in one of the strongest roles he has yet present work of being one of our most brilliant dramatists. Running through the play are several interesting underplots, and the story is told in bright, crisp dialogue. The characters are novel in construction and well carried
