Social and Personal

June is proverbially the best and prettiest month for weddings, and June of '98 is certainly to have its share of fair brides. During next month society will be given over almost entirely to those important events, and to smaller entertainments given for the bridal party. The public generally knows of one wedding to take place at the Methodist church, and another at the Congregational church. And there are several home weddings soon to occur, not all of which have been announced. Cupid's work of the past season has evidently not been entirely ineffective.

Mrs. B. F. and Miss Bailey gave two exceedingly pleasant parties this week. The first was a card party given on Wednesday afternoon. The house was decorated with meteor roses and palms. After the games, dainty refreshments were served. The players were well matched and two had to cut for each prize. Mrs. Buckstaff and Mrs. F. M. Hall cut for the first prize. The former was successful and was given an elegant bunch of meteor roses. Mrs. J. B. Wright and Mrs. Geo. Woods cut for the consolation and the latter received a large bunch of pink carnations. The guests for this afternoon were Mesdames C. H. Imhoff, Wolcott, C. L. and L. C. Burr, John Dorgan, Mallaliou, Lambertson, J. B. Wright, Rudy, Funke, Leonard, A. S. Mrs. Fawell gave her second party on Wednesday morning. This was also a card party. There was a conversation table decorated in pink, where dainties were served. The fortunate players were Mrs. Patrick and Mrs. Ewing. The guests were Mesdames Wier, Hammond, Mayer, Talbot, Aitkin, H. H. and A. C. Wilson, Dorr, Dayton, Macfarland, W. Rehleander, Rehleander, L. Mrs. and Miss Bailey's second party was a kensington given on Thursday afternoon, and a pleasant and pretty party it was indeed. The guests enjoying the afternoon were Mesdames H. H. Mrs. Geo. Fawell gave two morning parties this week for Mrs. Stoney and Mrs. Thomas. They were pink parties. The prizes on Tuesday morning were won by Mrs. D. E. Thompson and Miss Kitty Cowdry. Monday afternoon Mrs. Paul Holm entertained very informally. She has a number of new pictures which were admired, but one in particular which was especially good, and interesting to all present, was a picture of Mrs. Hadden-Alexander done in pastel. The picture was a credit to Mrs. Holm's skill. Mrs. Alexander helped to make the afternoon enjoyable with a number of piano solos. It is refreshing to see and hear such an artist as Mrs. Alexander, who is always ready to respond to any invitation to play and so thoroughly infatuated with music that she inspires all who hear her.

Mrs. Melchert L. Garten gave a most delightful reception on Friday afternoon for a large number of friends. It is a great pleasure to be entertained at this home, but Friday afternoon seemed to be particularly pleasant. The large rooms had been beautifully decorated. The parlors where Mrs. Garten assisted by Mesdames McCroery and Leavitt, received her guests was done in pink, the
