Social and Personal

Society was a bit dull this week, jaded perhaps after the brisk pace kept up at and antedating Thanksgiving. With the anticipation of gayety to come during the merry holidays, society seems to be conserving its energies for the pace that kills at that time. Several banquets, a few card parties and a reception or two, sum up the week's doings, a few invitations have been sent out for next week for afternoon parties, but nothing elaborate has been projected.

Miss Cora Parker entertained the members of the Haydon Art club delightfully Wednesday evening at the university library. In the corridor was hung a very creditable exhibition of framed pictures, the work of Miss Parker's pupils. In Miss Parker's studio were hung her own pictures. A new study which might be called "Dreams" owing to the pensive sadness of the central figure and the mistiness of the treatment, was the cynosure of all eyes. After viewing the pictures the guests were ushered into a side room where they were treated to the prettiest picture of all. At a table with red shaded candles sat Miss Nellie Cochrane gowned in pure white. From a beautiful Russian samovar she served all who came with delicious chocolates. From an Indian canoe in miniature the guests were privileged to help themselves to wafers. During the evening there was much enthusiastic conversation in regard to the exhibition of the club that will be held during the month of February. Mrs. Hall announced that she had obtained promise from the following artists of pictures for that occasion: Childs Hamam, E Percy Moran, Peter Moran, Francis F. Townsend, Charles Francis Brown, Caroline D. Wade, Frederick J. Mulhaupt, Hugh Bolton Jones, Ralph Clarkson, Charles Austin Needham, and Louis Paul Dessar. It will be interesting to know that Mr. Clarkson will send his handsome portraits of Col. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan. Mrs. Hall hinted that it might be possible that a Congress would grace the picture show. The studio with its pictures now hung will be open to the public from 2 to 5 o'clock each day until next Wednesday.

The city Young Men's Christian Association held its annual banquet in the banquet rooms of the association Thursday noon. The rooms were elaborately decorated with bunting. After doing justice to a fine menu, President Adams of the board of directors arose and introduced John Boone of the college association who responded to a toast. He spoke of the intimate and amicable relations of the college and city associations. Mr. Ward and Mr. Michener of the international committee made eloquent speeches. At the close the doxology was sung. About fifty guests were at the banquet which was voted a very successful affair. Many of the guests left the banquet to take the train for the state convention at Fremont.

Tuesday evening Miss Lena Anthony entertained the girls of the Q. A. T. club at her home on O street. Initial characteristics, a game where cards with well known characteristics of noted persons, the characteristics beginning with the initial of the personage's name were distributed and the guests are required to exercise their wits in guessing. Miss Alice Cusack, Miss Maud Graham, Miss Clara Leone and Miss Mable Erford were fortunate in guessing all the riddles and the four young ladies drew for the prizes. Miss Erford and Miss Cusack were lucky in drawing and obtained the prizes. The floors were cleared for dancing after the guessing games, and those who did not care to dance played cards or some novel games provided. To bring the evening's enjoyment to a close, Miss Anthony assisted by her little sister Flossie, served refreshments to the guests. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Anthony were: Misses Grant, Graham, Montgomery, Cook, Cusack, Doyle, Meek, Crevaling, Beanie Brown, Biltgen, McGreer, Wapson, Erford, Mabel Erford, Alta Wilson, Leone and Hattie Schaeffer.

Under profuse decorations of the national tricolor, about sixty members of the University Young Men's Christian Association sat down to its annual committee dinner at the University conservatory of music Wednesday evening. The guests were seated at the banquet table at 8 o'clock. College songs were sung before the waiters served the first course and between the courses was more music and speeches. The menu was elaborate and faultlessly served. John H. Boone, president of the Association, was toast master. The list of toasts and speeches was as follows: "Historical Sketch", Lucian J. Marsh; "Our Young Men," Chancellor MacLean; "The International Association," C. B. Ward; "The Relation of the Association to the Uni.," C. C. Michener; "Our Future," Henry B. Ward.

Amidst an exquisite setting of pale pink chrysanthemums, relieved by feathery asparagus ferns, a party of handsomely gowned women took part in a reception at the home of Mrs. Eli Plummer Thursday afternoon. The hostess was assisted in greeting the large number of guests by Mrs. McLaughlin of Omaha and Miss Bertie Clark. Mrs. Jansen, Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Carl Thompson and Mrs. Joseph Lippincott ushered the guests to the dining room where Mrs. Mark Woods and Mrs. McMahon of Omaha presided at the coffee urns and poured the amber liquid. Miss Lottie Clark, Miss Edna Polk, Miss Eleanor Raymond and Miss Katherine Odell passed about among the ladies and served the coffee. The reception was a happy one in every particular and marked a bright spot in an otherwise rather dull week in the social whirl.

A society of young ladies mysteriously intruded N. B. G. gave the first of a series of luncheons at the home of Mrs. Nellie Smith on Tuesday evening. During the evening a number of instrumental selections were artistically rendered by the Misses Grace and Mabel Hildebrand, also a vocal selection by Miss Mable Hildebrand. The following members were present: Misses Wittmor, O'Shea, Nicholson, Oylar and Mrs. Nellie Smith. Misses Grace and Mabel Hildebrand, Rev. R. N. Turner and Mr. Clarence Harrison were the guests of the evening.
