cert Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eames entertained a few friends in honor of Mr. George Hamlin of Chicago. An attractive lunch was served. Mr. Hamlin despite the fatigue of his recent performance, sang superbly a cycle of songs by Tchaikowsky. Mr. Eames was heard to great advantage in compositions of the neo Russian school in which the grave and tragic emotion requires a player of forceful as well as subtle interpretation. Mr. Eames magnificent technical equipment was displayed to a much better advantage than at the recent recital in which he was handicapped by unfavorable conditions.

Word has been received in Lincoln from New York to the effect that Mrs. C. S. Lippincott, formerly of this city, is meeting with flattering success as a concert singer. She sang recently at the Professional club concert and was received with enthusiasm. Afterwards she was requested to sing at the Waldorf Astoria at one of the Monday evening concerts where she again met with appreciation, and was again asked to appear, but owing to a bad cold was forced to refuse to sing. The many friends of Mrs. Lippincott in this city will be rejoiced to hear of her success in the metropolis where the standard is so high, and will wish her continued successful achievement.

The following interesting item is taken from Harper's Bazar: Have any of the young women of the present day heard of a "smoked glass party?" Invitations were sent out for one a short time ago, and the men were asking the girls and the girls were asking the men what on earth it meant. It came off the other night, and this is what it was. When the young people, about twenty-five in all, were received by the hostess they were seated at tables, as at a progressive euchre party, about the drawing room. In the centre of each table they saw a small oil lamp with no chimney, a box of matches, a pile of Japanese napkins and a pile of squares of ordinary window glass about the size of a photograph frame.

No one could imagine what he or she was expected to do, but was soon informed. The girl who gave the party stood at the head of the room with a small clock in her hands and said: "Now each one of you is to draw a picture of some kind on the glass plate, and you are given just five minutes to do it in. First you light the lamps, then in turn each smokes a glass, and when I set off the alarm in this little clock you are to commence. Draw the pictures—landscapes, animals, portraits anything you wish—with your fingers, and when the alarm stops ringing you must stop drawing. The one who turns out the best picture gets a prize. There are first, second and booby prizes. The napkins are to wipe your fingers on. When you have finished wipe off the glass and we will begin all over again.

One, two, three—ready!" and off went the alarm. Amid shouts of laughter the men and girls set to work with a will, and some of the attempts at artistic drawing were ludicrous in the extreme. Some of the pictures were caricatures, very funny, and well done, and the girl who gave the smoked glass party was surprised to find that her original idea had been the means of bringing out what she called "so much latent talent."

George Bartlett entertained a small party informally Wednesday night for Miss Ethel Harmon of Tecumseh who is in the city visiting her brother Arthur. The evening was spent in playing progressive smut. This game is one at cards in which the unlucky players are treated to a blotch of smut on the cheek for their unsuccessful attempts. The unlucky players with their several blotches made admirable caricatures at the close of the game. A dance for a moment's duration added to the pleasure of the evening and delightful refreshments were served.

The Central Circle of First Presbyterian church will give a musicale next Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Yates. The program will be given by Mrs. D. A. Campbell, Mrs. E. Lewis Baker, Mrs. Marion Treat Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cur-tice, Miss Pauline Maud Oakley, Miss Eleanor Raymond, Miss Ella Givens and Mr. Charles Engle.

Monday evening Miss Rose Foster entertained very prettily for her friend Miss Ethel Harmon of Tecumseh. The evening was delightfully spent, informally, and at the close a supper was served elegant in every appointment. Miss Foster's guests were Misses Ethel Harmon, Clara Watkins, Laura Houtz, Ella Harper, May Honeywell, Emma Outcalt, Messrs. Arthur Harmon, Nelson Davidson, Ralph Sabia, John Hill, George Bartlett, and Earl McCreery.

Thomas M. Cook of this city who has been prominent in republican politics in Lincoln for the past few years, has been appointed to the position of deputy collector of customs at Porto Rico. Mr. Cook received his appointment through Mr. Meiklejohn, a personal friend. He left the middle of the week for New York from whence he will sail later for his new home.

At a recent society event in Denver where prominent ladies posed as pictures, Miss Marie Hoover represented a Gainsboro girl. One of the Denver papers produced a very attractive picture of the young lady in the costume. Miss Hoover is in Denver studying music with a well-known musician, and is a member of the Tuesday afternoon musical club, an organization that corresponds to the Matinee Musical of Lincoln.

Mrs. A. L. Hoover entertained the Lindell card club very pleasantly Tuesday evening. An elegant luncheon ad-
