Social and Personal

There is great complaint among those who entertain in Lincoln that the invited guests do not come at the hour set for reception or party. The hostess writes her invitations and sets the hour for the guests to arrive, but Lincoln guests use their own pleasure in coming, and they straggle along at any old hour no matter what inconvenience it may cause the one who has extended the invitation. The hostess has gone to work and made her arrangements for a certain hour. She is dressed and ready to greet her guests and those who are to assist her are also ready, but no guests arrive. There is a long dreary wait and the hostess is chagrined and worn out before the arrival of those she has invited. Punctuality is a virtue that applies as well in society as in business, and it is a virtue that should be cultivated by those who claim to be Lincoln's four hundred. In the country where there are chores to do it is excusable when a farmer and his wife are late to a husking bee or a dance, but in the city where business ceases at four or five o'clock, there is no valid excuse for guests being late. It is not respectful to keep the hostess waiting, and it shows lack of breeding on the part of the invited to fail in recognizing the hour the hostess has named in her cards of invitation.

When the afternoon had well nigh waned, elaborate refreshments were served. The guests were: Mesdames Cropsey, Hanson and Steele of Fairbury; Muir, Buckstaff, Oakley, Mohrenstecher, Outcalt, Hayes, Bennett, Simmons, Folsom, Raymond, Whiting, Bartlett, Ansley, Holm, Holmes and Dales.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves gave a delightful euchre party for Mrs. Horton of Cincinnati, who is the guest of Mrs. Woods. Bunches of crimson carnations and meteor roses spilled fragrance and brilliant color in the rooms, and the lights in the parlors were mellowed with pink shades. Mrs. S. H. Burnham won the first prize, a dainty water color picture; Mrs. Lew Marshall won a pretty handkerchief case as second prize, and Mrs. D. A. Campbell received a candle stick with a decorated candle for consolation. Mrs. Campbell and Miss Oakley delighted the guests with vocal selections after the games were over. Refreshments were served at the close. Those present were: Mesdames Horton, Woods, Wilson, Griffith, Burnham, Hayden, Marshall, Curtice, Armstrong, Campbell and Loveland of Saginaw, Mich; Misses Putnam, Hand, Rinehart, Oakley, Mount, Burnham and Marshall.

The members of the Indians old soldier's association met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Odell, 26th and O streets Monday night to pay their farewell respects. A bountiful supper was served and a mandolin orchestra furnished some beautiful music. During the evening the members of the Appomattox G. A. R. post and Relief Corps invaded the house in a body, bringing good cheer and some good things to eat with them. The evening was made most enjoyable by the arrival of the latter guests. After the evening was well nigh spent, Mrs. Louise Alexander on behalf of the corps, presented Mrs. Odell with a handsomely framed picture of the corps. Mrs. Odell and children have gone to Chicago where they will remain for a few days before being joined by Mr. Odell, when they will all go on to Evansville, Ind., where they will make their home in the future. Miss Odell will remain in the city until some time in April, making her home with Dr. and Mrs. Righter.

Miss Helen Woods gave a delightful progressive hearts party last Saturday evening. The house was adorned with cut flowers and palms and the evening was brought to a close with an elegant luncheon. Ten tables were set for cards. Miss McMenemy won the prize for ladies and Mr. Haecker won that for the gentlemen. Miss Cunningham and Mr. Schick drew consolation prizes. Those who enjoyed the game were: Misses Cole, McMenemy, Odell, Winger, Jackson, Lewis, Prentiss, Polk, Outcalt, Hammond, Cunningham, Lansing, Fuller, Macomber and Macomber. Messrs Clark, Korsmeyer, Cuscaden, Hagtie, Oramb, Schick, Lewis, Kind, Christie, McCreery, Barber, Collett, Clapp, Bartlett, Morrill, Fricke, Wiggenshorn, A. L. and O. Brown; Messrs and Mesdames M. W., G. J. and F. H. Woods, Eddy, and Mrs. Horton.

One of the prettiest events in society this week was the party given Tuesday afternoon, by Mrs. Chas. H. Keefer, in honor of Mrs. Dan Cropsey of Fairbury. Mrs. Cropsey formerly resided in Lincoln and the renewal of former friendships and acquaintanceships was very pleasant. Mrs. Keefer had included in the invitations sent out, a request that the recipient bring a sharp penknife with her and this alone was enough to excite curiosity. After the greetings were over the hostess brought out a thin square of pine board for each guest. Upon each square was outlined a face from which the ladies were to cut away the board and leave the outline intact. Some of the ladies showed much skill in whittling and Mrs. G. B. Hanson of Fairbury, was awarded the prize for the neatest outline. The ladies all enjoyed the unique amusement, even if some of them did take home blistered hands.

This week has witnessed the advent of many politicians of the state in the capital city, called thither no doubt by the senatorial fight now in progress. Among the more notable persons present during the week were Edward Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, editor of the Omaha World-Herald; Dick Berlin, one of the leaders of the swell set of Omaha, who is now much interested in politics; W. N. Babcock, formerly general manager of the Union Stock Yards company; Senator W. F. Allen and Congressman elect-Robinson. The hotel lobbies have been filled with men from over the state and the political pot has been seething and bubbling all week.

The past two weeks have been a bit dull in society. One thing that has been detrimental to gay times is the prevalence of the grip. Try to be gay as one will, the grip will not consent, and society cannot be happy, or look dignified, with a red nose, so there has been a little lull in the midst of the season and only a few have entertained.
