Social and Personal

The close of last week was attended by a certain amount of gaiety, as is the close of every week. The blizzard of Saturday interfered with some of the social functions, although some of the pleasureably inclined braved the elements. Friday evening Miss Newbranch entertained a number of her friends at cards, games and divers other amusements. Refreshments and dancing absorbed the attention for the last part of the evening. Miss Newbranch's guests were Misses Dempster, Mickey, Shively, Anderson, Melick, Muma, Shank, Chapell; Messrs. Smoyer, Mumford, Newbranch, Ned and Keene Abbott, Hull, Searson and Mrs. Newbranch. A series of Lenten informal evenings given by Mr. Turpin complimentary to the fraternities of the university are very enjoyable. Friday evening the second one was given to the following guests: Misses Ricketts, Raymond, Parks, McFarland, Woods, Loomis, Douglas, DuTeil, Henry, Hayes, Macomber, Winger, Ashmen, Lasch, Minor, Woodward, McWhinnie, Hoover, Holbrook; Messrs. Ricketts, Walker, Haecker, Humphrey, Crandall, Roberts, Erwin, Reed, Hansen, Sheldon, Teeters, Atwood, Grant, Chapin, Cuscaden, King and Henry. Miss Florence Hargreaves was the victim of a very pleasant surprise Friday evening, the occasion being the sixteenth birthday of the hostess. Games and music amused the guests until a late hour. The guests were: Misses Kate Hale, May Kelley, Alice Hargreaves, Mabel Gritzner, Janet Davis, Nita Hyde, Ada Miller, Irene Kelley, Edna Parker, Goodell.

The thirty-eighth birthday of Mrs. D. J. Kent was celebrated in a fitting manner on Friday evening by a surprise, skillfully arranged by her husband, asisted by Mrs. Towner, Mrs. Hinsley and Miss Olive Kent. The evening was delightfully spent with all sorts of games. On Saturday afternoon the alumnae association of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity were entertained by Miss Nellie Griggs. In spite of the blizzard, a goodly number of the girls were present and spent a merry time. The guests vied with each other in a competition of dressing paper dolls, and Mrs. Emory Hardy was awarded the prize as having dressed the most artistic one. Misses Ona and Charlotte Bushnell celebrated their eleventh birthday on Saturday by entertaining two dozen of their little friends in a most pleasing way. Games and other sorts of amusements served to pass the hours away most charmingly. The Phi Delta Phi the legal fraternity of the university initiated four men into their mystic maze Saturday evening. The victims were Messrs. Evart, Richards, Brown and Graham. A tempting supper followed the initiation.

Mrs. Elias Baker gave a pretty party Tuesday afternoon in honor of the twelfth anniversary of her daughter, Miss Edna. About thirty little girls responded to invitation, and spent a very merry afternoon. Misses Baldwin and Holland assisted in making joyous the hours by telling the fortunes of the children and other sorts of amusements. Bean bags formed an important feature, in the contest of which Louise Hoover proved herself the most successful thrower, receiving as a trophy a pretty fan. Supper was served in the gas lighted dining room which was done in pink. The guests were Ethel and Pussy Burkett, Louise and Della Hoover, Marie and Louise Barr, Annie Jones, Mary Minor, Cathrine Yates, Lulu Saylor, Grace White, Helen Laws, Marie Talbot, Ella Morrison, Gladys Garoutte, Wilma Casebeer, Edna Bryant, Kathrina Jacques, Liela Taylor, Nellie Newmark, Neva Hibner, Ethel Perkins, Marian Ogden, Sarah Ladd, Pansy Coffin, May Hathaway, Lila Le Gore, Marian Hart and Alice Rodgers.

Mrs. Oliver Rodgers was at home on Wednesday to her friends in the Book club, who were invited to meet her mother, Mrs. Burdan. When the rooms were filled with the murmur of voices pitched to the key of harmonious and beautiful surroundings in a congenial company, Mr. Wm. Reed Dunroy, the prairie poet, was introduced by Mrs. Rodgers. Mr. Dunroy read a few of his poems. The company testified its appreciation by frequent applause. The winds and the corn, the long, gentle curve of the prairies, and the far-off horizons of Nebraska are translated very literally by Mr. Dunroy, and it is a rare pleasure to hear him read his poems.

The party was given in honor of Mrs. Burdan, Mrs. Rodger's mother, who stopped in Lincoln on her way to the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Burdan left on Thursday for San Francisco whence she sails for Japan in two weeks, one of a party of five who mean to spend a few months in the island empire.

Mrs. Rodgers is the founder of the Book club, one of the most successful organizations ever started here, and Thursday's function was one of many which she has given for the members.

The Cake Walk at Bohannon's hall last Friday evening collected a number of society people who gave every sign of enjoying the performance. In spite of the criticism the posturings and exaggerated cake walk strut of the gaily dressed and light hearted contestants were not shocking except in the case of one girl who was evidently under a misapprehension of the conduct for which the prize was to be presented.

Three solemn judges sat on the platform and as couple by couple took their turn around the hall the judges never smiled or gave any indication of favor. Their decision was announced as soon as the last dancers had bowed before them. The contestants strutted and swaggered and were as vain as any primitive people in gay colors and on a festal night, but there was little to find fault with. The walk was given by the waiters of the Lincoln hotel. The numbers pleased the white people present and a gallery full of colored people.

On last Saturday evening at Mrs. J. W. Johnson's was the last of a series of Saturday evening parties into which has been gathered a number of interesting young people who are attending the State university and the musical conservatories. These Saturday evening entertainments have been informal, but very enjoyable, the young people making their own entertainment with music, dancing and lively conversation. At the last meeting Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Wharton were special guests and the evening was devoted to music and ac-
