

Louis. Invitations have been received by the Lincoln ladies from Mrs. Oscar Herf for a morning outing at the Country club, private cars being provided for the occasion. Complimentary tickets from the Philharmonic society to the performance of Bruch's "Arminius" at the grand music hall in the exposition building have also been received. Other receptions and a number of fine concerts have also been arranged for and those planning to go are anticipating a most pleasant and profitable week.

The city improvement society met on Thursday morning, with the president, Mrs. Langworthy Taylor in the chair. The annual organization was completed for the year by the election of Mrs. Fitzgerald as treasurer and Miss Harris as auditor. Mayor Winnett was present and good-naturedly answered the many questions the members of the society asked him. He suggested that if one resident of each block in the city would ask every other resident of that block for a contribution of ten cents, the names of the streets could be attached to lamp posts on the corners. Although the mayor has been riding about the streets of Lincoln for years, he is often puzzled when he leaves the centre of the city to know just where he is. Such has been the experience of every one who has tried to find his way about the outskirts of Lincoln. The society thought favorable of undertaking and inciting this reform.

The society directed the secretary, Mrs. Richardson, to draw up and complete an ordinance prohibiting expectation in the street cars, it being understood that the street car authorities were willing to see that such an ordinance was complied with. It might be well to extend the ordinance so that it may apply to the theatres and public buildings of the city also. The mayor thought it was not practicable to decrease the number of loafers that obstruct and make filthy the sidewalks of the city. Although every merchant and banker whose doorways they effect, complain of them as an unmitigated nuisance. But if the street car ordinance is successful there is reason to believe that the sidewalks may be cleared later on. The society adjourned after thanking Mayor Winnett for his kindness and patience.

The young women of the senior class of the State university entertained the Faculty Women's club Saturday afternoon. A symposium on the "University Woman" was given. Addresses were made by Mrs. E. L. Hinman, Miss Harwood, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. W. G. L. Taylor, Miss Herron and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer. There was also vocal music. A reception in the woman's parlor followed the program. Refreshments were served. The gift of a picture from Miss Parker, to be placed in the parlor, was accepted in a graceful speech by Miss Bertha Johnson.

The North Side Circle of St. Paul's church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. L. C. Richards. James Lane Allen, his life, his work as a naturalist and his stories, was the subject of the afternoon. Mrs. Viola Price Franklin was the leader and talked of Mr. Allen's life and characteristics. She was assisted by Mesdames Gring, Winnett, Parish and others. Mrs. D. A. Campbell sang a group of songs. Refreshments were served. Fifty women were present nearly all of whom are members of the circle.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. E. H. Barbour gave a kensington in honor of her guest Mrs. F. G. Richardson of Chicago, and many friends received a gracious welcome from the two ladies. The fragrance and color of roses and carnations added to the attractiveness of Mrs. Barbour's beautiful new home.

Some lovely songs and piano numbers were rendered by Mrs. A. W. Jansen, Mrs. R. A. Holyoke and Miss Hoover. Delicate refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul H. Holm, Mrs. Willard Kimball and Mrs. Richards.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Bessey and Mrs. T. M. Hodgman gave a tea party on Thursday night and another last night. About forty guests were present each evening and the luncheon was served on small tables. Large letter Ts cut from card board and bearing quotations containing words ending in "ty" were cut in two, and a lady and gentleman matching their pieces were expected to go to dinner together. The letters were tied with ribbons corresponding in color with the flowers on the tables and by this means each couple found their table. On Thursday evening Professor Hodgman presided as toastmaster introducing each speaker in a bright and happy manner. The following were the speakers and the subjects:

Dr. E. W. Davis, "European Experiences."

Dr. F. M. Fling, "The Difficulties and Opportunities Offered in Paris for Research in the Preparation of My Forthcoming Book on Mirabeau."

Hon. W. J. Bryan, "Duties and Opportunities of the Educated Man."

Those invited were: Misses Margaret Honeywell, Neva Hibner, Nannie Cunningham, Helen Dolson and Lulu Saylor; Masters Dick Clark, Herbert Avery, Willie Cunningham, Newton Campbell and Aldis Hibner.

On Saturday evening at seven o'clock the annual dinner of the Atheneia club was given at the home of the president, Mrs. W. A. Green. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Lamb, Green, Dorr, Harley, Tilton, Farwel, Kelley, Dr. and Mrs. Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Holyoke, Professor and Mrs. Fling, Senator and Mrs. Talbot, Judge and Mrs. Irvine, Rev. and Mrs. Manss; Mesdames Lewis and Lansing, and Miss Allen.

All sorts of lovely things both musical and social are being arranged for the delectation of those ladies who will attend the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Musical clubs at St. Louis next week. The Lincoln delegates have received invitations from Mrs. Oscar Herf for an outing and luncheon at the country club. A number of "swell" receptions will be given, and complimentary tickets for concerts have also been received.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Folmer and Miss Mae Folmer entertained the South Side Circle of St. Paul's M. E. church at their home in the Salisbury block. Miss Josephine Shute sang a group of songs charmingly and Miss Folmer gave a reading which was well received. Refreshments were served.

Miss Silence Dales went to Crete on Wednesday to assist Mr. W. Irving

Fashionable Headware for Women

THE TREMENDOUS business enjoyed by this department so far this season is gratifying in the extreme. It proves conclusively that people appreciate the value of our assortments, that they fully realize what a money saving our prices represent and that here style alone does not govern the price. There is about our hats a decided tone of richness and style seldom seen anywhere but in Paris patterns and we do not advance the price on this account, but in every hat shown there is a real, visible value, the price of which you will judge to be much higher than what we ask. We solicit your inspection.

Miss Mae Burr gave a box party on Monday evening for her guest Miss Katherine Norman of St. Joseph.

Miss Edith Shaw, a post graduate pupil of the University School of Music gave a recital of unusual interest for that of a student Thursday night at the chapel. Miss Shaw possesses unusual gifts, and for a year or two musicians have been interested in watching the progress made by this young player who is now but sixteen years old. She has grown in the past year, her technique has improved and her interpretation is more mature and musicianly. She played successfully the following program:

- Beethoven—Concerto in C minor; Allegro con brio.
- Heymer—Elfenspiel.
- Schumann—Nachtstuck F Major.
- Eames—(a) Bourree a la Bach; (b) study in A flat.
- Napravnik—Nocturne D flat.
- Liszt—Fantasie Hongroise.

The Lincoln club gave the last formal party of the season at the L. S. I. hall on Thursday evening. Forty couples participated in the pleasures of the evening, including the elaborate banquet, with which it concluded. Very pretty painted soda crackers were placed at each plate, as souvenirs, and the tables were lavishly decorated with flowers. The young ladies who have been invited by members of the club to
