A reception was given Saturday morning from ten until twelve o'clock at the residence of Mrs. A. J. Sawyer by Deborah Avery chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to celebrate the one hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill, the charter day of the chapter, and to honor Mrs. M. L. Hayward of Nebraska City, wife of Senator Hayward. The members of the chapter by choosing a morning for their reception instead of risking a June afternoon proved themselves as wise in their generation as were their ancestors. The morning was glorious and the reception beautiful. Every woman with a spark of patriotism in her nature whether entitled to be called a "Daughter" or not must have felt her pulse quicken as she passed from room to room and out on the verandah to be greeted on all sides by the stars and stripes draped on balustrades, in doorways and upon the walls, the effect of which was heightened by patriotic airs played by a mandolin orchestra. Mrs. M. D. Welch met the guests in the reception hall and ushered them into the drawing room where they were presented by Mrs. Rudolph Rehlaender to the receiving party consisting of Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. J. G. Morrison, regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Hayward. Members of the advisory board who assisted in doing the honors were Mesdames R. T. Van Brunt, Harpham, Henry, Will Phillips, H. M. Everett, and Miss Stevens. The dining room was done in blue and white, the chapter colors, and Washington staff colors as well. Streamers of bunting radiated from the centre of the ceiling to all sides of the room. A center piece embroidered in blue was on the table, standing upon it was a tall vase filled with spikes of magnificent blue larkspur. Ice cream and small cakes were here served by Mrs. Eubank, Misses Gere, Waugh, Davis, and Harwood, all in blue or white gowns. Upstairs at the entrance to the library the guests were met by Miss Rice and invited to drink lemonade which was served by Mrs. J. C. Seacrest, Misses Welch, Garten, Harpham, and Henry. This room was decorated in blue and buff, the colonial colors. About seven hundred ladies were bidden to the reception, a very large number of whom responded. A luncheon was served to out of town guests after the others had departed. They were Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Steele of Fairbury, Mrs. Munger of Fremont, Mrs. Brash of Beatrice, Mrs. James Cline of Minden, Mrs. Thomas Ryan, Mrs. James Reed of Nebraska City, Miss Childs, of Boston, Mrs. Stoutenborough of Plattsmouth, and Miss Wilder, of Kansas.

On Wednesday at four o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Griffith, occurred the marriage of Miss Lucy Griffith to Mr. Henry Allen Reese, Rev. H. T. Davis presiding elder for this district of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Hagenow's string quartette stationed in the upper hall played the wedding music from Lohengrin as Miss Griffith and Mr. Reese descended the stairs and took their places in an alcove formed of palms and smilax. The bride was charming in a white swiss gown made entrain, and a long tulle veil. She carried bride's roses. After the ceremony and congratulations a supper was served. The dining table was set for the bridal party, the decorations were pink and white ribbons and roses. The lights were from pink shaded candelabra. The remainder of the guests were seated at round tables for the supper. The decorations throughout the house were pink and white. Large bows with streamers held the ropes of smilax which draped the doorways and entwined the balustrade, and the mantels were banked with roses of the same hues, and ferns. Punch was served in the library by Miss Syford, and in the drawing room, Mrs. Mallalieu, Misses Burr and Hollowbush presided. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents. According to tradition the one who catches the bride's bouquet as she tosses it to the company will herself be the next bride among those present, Miss Hollowbush was victorious in securing the fragrant flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Reese left at six o'clock for the West. They will be in Cripple Creek until October first, when they will be at home at Colorado Springs. The bride's traveling costume was a brown covert tailor made, with hat and gloves to match. In the departure of Miss Griffith Lincoln society loses one of its most charming and womanly young ladies. The groom is a talented young attorney with a bright future. The wedding guests were Judge and Mrs. Reese, Judge and Mrs. Comstock, Messrs and Mesdames Griffith, Brown, Richards, Clark, Marshall, Merrill, Mallalieu, Rector, Curtice, Davis, Brown, and Campbell; Misses Kaufman, Hollowbush, Burr, Harrison, Curtice, Campbell, Clark; Messrs Joyce, Honeywell, Baldwin of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanford of Wahoo, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, and their daughters Josephine, Frances, Dorothy, and Genevieve, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Burrows of Sheridan, Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Burrows of Norfolk, Neb., Mr. Beetum and Mr. Fred White of Omaha.

At half past seven on Wednesday evening the marriage of Miss Myrtle Shreve daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shreve, to Dr. Frank Hinchey of St. Louis, was solemnized. Hagenow's orchestra played the wedding march as the procession descended to the drawing room. Two beautiful little flower girls Grace Brown and Faith Schwind, in pink gowns, led the way and strewed the bride's path with roses. Following them was the ring bearer, Miss Olga Draemel of Fremont, in a white frock, slippers and stockings, and after her the bride, unattended. She was met at the foot of the stairs by the groom and together they took their places beneath an arch of palms where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. L. Marsh, pastor of All Souls church, the ring service being used. The bride's gown was of white organdie made entrain, trimmed with tiny ruffles edged with footing and bow knots of narrow, satin ribbon. The yoke and sleeves were of mecllin lace. The long veil was of tulle and the bouquet of brides roses. Mrs. Shreve, mother of the bride, wore lavender organdie. She was assisted in caring for her guests by Mrs. Draemel of Fremont, Mrs. Hyatt, Misses Hawley,
