

Misses Biltgen, McGeer, Lees, Luffer, Anthony, Clinton, Wilson, Howland, Barrick, Watson, Mabel and Edith Erford; Messrs. Poynter, Wilson, Crawford, Dunbaugh, Luter, Patterson, Anderson, Morse, Hawley, Franklin, Hart, Evans and Woodruff.

Mr. C. G. Dawes comptroller of the currency, and Mrs. Dawes were the guests for a few days this week of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Raymond. They were returning from a trip to the northwest.

Mr. I. M. Raymond gave an informal one o'clock luncheon at the Union Commercial club rooms on Wednesday in honor of Mr. C. G. Dawes comptroller of the currency. Speeches were made by Messrs. Dawes, Gere, Harwood, Judge Holmes, Wright, McFarland, private secretary of President Perkins of the Burlington, and Mr. Jackson of Chicago. The comptroller responded in his usual happy vein, expressing the good will and kindness which he really feels towards his friends and neighbors of Lincoln. Perhaps no manifestation is resented longer and deeper than that of forgetfulness by the distinguished of former chums. Mr. Dawes is particularly free from such a fault. He is as cheerfully chummy as when he was a young lawyer in Lincoln with nothing but a good education, good breeding, an inventive and aspiring mind and a love for companionship to keep his spirits up. No one who has ever known him but wishes him the good fortune he so generously shares.

Mrs. R. M. Turner gave a delightful children's party yesterday afternoon in honor of her two little ones, Marian and Robert. Games of various sorts were played and a luncheon was served on the verandah. Those present were: Willie, Charlie, Ralph and Hugh Hindman, Elsie and Bernice Herman, Harrie and Edith Hainie, Dick and Lizzie Doran, Minnie Hockenberry, Myrtle Scott, Ralph Rewick, Annie and Edward Jones, Camille Hall, Edward Rodgers, Ethel Perkins, Julia Deweese, Emmy Tyler, Edith Bell, Harvey Morse, Lida Irvine, Babbette Weil, Helen Hammond and Eddie Knowles.

On Tuesday evening Messrs. Isaac Raymond and Oscar Whitman gave a delightful party at the Phi Delta Theta house. The evening was spent with music and dancing and was thoroughly enjoyed by the gay party of young people present. Those who enjoyed the dance were: Misses Funke, Outcalt, Hunt, Meyer, Hayes, Bennett, Weesner, Hargreaves, White and Miles of Council Bluffs; Messrs. Fawell, McCreery, Hill, Abbott, Crandall, Stein, Whitman, Isaac and Will Raymond, and Diedrich and Alex Lau.

On Thursday evening a company of young people enjoyed a picnic and the theatre at Lincoln park. A new departure was that the luncheon which was unusually good was furnished by the men. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Harry Freeman and Guy Walsh; Misses Risser, Hoover, Thomas, Ricketts, Hooper, Broady, Ashton, Hammond and Hammond; Messrs. Marley, Paine, Larimer, Butler, Swartz, Smith, Whitmore, Thomas and Hayee.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hoagland chaperoned a merry company of young people at a picnic at Lincoln park on Monday evening. A sumptuous supper was enjoyed. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland, Mrs. Stevens; Misses Shickley of Indianapolis, Mary and Lydia Weckbach, Mary and Lizzie Stevens, Hemple and Flynn; Messrs. P. J. Franey of Aurora, Stevens, Weckbach, Flynn and Arthur Goslin of Waverly.

Mrs. C. C. White gave a party on Tuesday from four to half past seven in honor of the eighth birthday of her daughter Carol. A luncheon was served on the lawn. Those present were: Misses Mary Richardson of York, Ruth Johnson of Crete, Margaret and Olive States, Ora and Gladys Neeshaw, Ella Morrison, Elta Cone and Virginia Moseley.

Miss Maud Oakley is enjoying her work in Chicago with the Castle Square Opera Company. Miss Oakley has histrionic ability and that rare charm on the comic opera stage, a ladylike presence and savoir faire. As soon as she is given a talking part, there is little doubt that she will rapidly rise. Her stage name is Maude Owen.

A congenial coterie of Lincoln people have taken a house in Brownville for the summer. Mrs. Whedon and Mrs. Gere with Miss Gere, Miss Whedon, Misses Frances and Ellen Gere, Misses Maggie Whedon, Anne Broady and Nellie Griggs left on Thursday for their Brownville cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burnham started for Maine on Thursday. Mr. Burnham has gone especially to attend a meeting of his Dartmouth college class of 1874. There are eighty members of this class who will gather to celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wiseman gave a riding party followed by a social hour and refreshments on the verandah which was illuminated with Japanese lanterns. Twenty guests were present and passed a very pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Lynch entertained at cards on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Myrtle Shreve. The guests were: Misses Shreve, Stevens, Lees, Hawley, Stewart, Stevens, Fricke of Madison, Heaton of Hartington and Mrs. Stewart.

On Tuesday some of next year's high school seniors gave a picnic at Lincoln Park. Some of those present were Geneva Bullock, Lida and Clela Williams, Sylvia Bailey, Bell, Marion Bell, Louise Allen, Emily Bowers; Messrs. Roscoe Alexander, Charlie Sawyer, Sam Shear, Weldou Warren.

Miss Hardy entertained at breakfast last Friday the following: Mesdames Richards, Calvert, Welch, Muir, McLean, Smith, Thomas, Rhodes, Abbott, Hardy, Tiltou, Fawell, Dorr, Cowdery, Hodgman, Thompson and Hardy.

Miss Anna W. Horton entertained her class of young ladies from the Plymouth Sunday School at six o'clock supper on Tuesday. The guests were: Misses Gray, McGrew, Beams, Douglas, Stambough and McVicker.

THE SILENT SEA.

I know a sea, across whose silv'ry main
Euroclydon has never dared to roam,
Or float a wreck upon its sun-kissed foam;
To sink to darkened depths, where garnered gain,
And treasures of his wrath, and wild disdain,
Lie on the floor of ocean's wave swept loam,
As thick strewn stars that light the azure
dome
O'er weary wanderers on some desert plain,
Arise swift silken sails in snowy gleams,
To bear life's golden memories to me,
Across the tide of this strange shoreless sea;
I watch with soul besteepled in anxious dreams,
And burning eyes all dimmed with burning tears,
These lone sails sweep the silent sea of years

Widower—My dear dead wife always did her best to save me from disgrace.

Friend—Umph! You used to tell me that she was ruining you by her extravagance.

Widower—Well, Carnegie says that it is a disgrace to die rich.

Western preacher (as he gets the drop on his congregation with a six-shooter)—"Brother Williams will now go through the pockets of the brethren and collect three hundred dollars back salary that is now due me, while we all join in singing the long-meter doxology, 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow'; an' if I catch any of you blokes turnin' for your guns, I'll bore a hole through you big enough for an elephant to play hos!"

The Editor's Own Son.

"Papa," inquired the editor's only son, "what do you call your office?" "Well," was the reply, "the world calls an editor's office the sanctum sanctorum, but I don't." "Then, I guess," and the boy was thoughtful for a moment, "that mamma's office is a spankum spa ktorum, isn't it?"

Some Musical Instruments.

Rob—The most wonderful organ I ever saw was the property of a private gentleman. It had nearly a hundred stop.

Richard—The most wonderful organ I ever saw was the property of a widow. It was her tongue, and it had no stops at all.
