Are There Such Drug Stores
Most assuredly. Rare, to be sure; perhaps one or two such in Lincoln. Drug stores which buy only of manufacturers renowned the world over for the QUALITY of their drugs and chemicals. Several of the most familiar are: E. M. Squibbs & Sons; Lehn & Pink; John Wyrth & Bro.; Schieffelin & Co., Powers & Weightman; Merch & Co., and others of like reputation. When you are acquainted with a pharmacy which does not handle any but goods of this standard it becomes a pleasure to place implicit confidence in its ability and integrity. Riggs' Pharmacy, northwest corner 12th and O street is just such a place.

SOCIETY

Many forms of entertainment have been given this week by the society folks. Hallowe'en was observed in many different ways by many different people. Small affairs have been numerous, owing to the presence in the city of visiting ladies. Dinners, luncheons and teas have been given for the bride-to-be, who is soon to sail away over the sea to her home in Honolulu. A large card party yesterday afternoon and a dance last night kept the society set in whirl, and a large reception this afternoon will close the week's goyeties.

One hundred and fifty members and friends of Holy Trinity Sabbath school met at the church Tuesday evening and with jack o' lanterns in hand marched to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Abbott to enjoy a Hallowe'en party. Sports and games suitable to the day were provided. The children caught in their teeth apples which hung in the doorways, they plunged for apples floating in tubs of water and fished raisins from a pan of alcohol quickly so as not to burn the fingers. Prizes were won by Ilma Newton and Charles Neal for pinning tails on the correct and incorrect place on a dunkey. Bowls of cakes, candy, apples and popcorn were conveniently placed in the different rooms and all "helped themselves."

Mrs. W. A. Green entertained a company of children Saturday afternoon in honor of the ninth birthday of her daughter Miss Gratia Green. Games were played until refreshment time. A birthday cake, always an object of interest, was provided with the proper number of candles. Many pretty gifts were received by Miss Green. Those present were: Edna Carman, Mabel Dye, Mabel Mulliner, Pansy Priest, Helen Macfarland, Helen Mitchell, Verna Edgren, Alice Rodgers, Pauline and Lucile Johnson, Nina Troyer, Marie and Robert Talbot, Katherine Beeson, Katherine Holyoke, Sarah Ladd, Lida and Winifred Irwin, Olive Meade, Albertine Martin, Dorothy Raymond, Dorothy Dorr, Marian Hart, Mary Tucker, Mariel Jones, Verna Vanderpool, Essabel Roman, Isabel and Pearl Armstrong, Robert Holyoke, Payson Ewing, Mary Watson, Harold Graham, Henry Burnham, Donald and Dorothy Miller, Marjorie Green, Helen McCleannan, Blanche Smith, Ruth Smith, Vera Newton.

Saturday afternoon the Hawthorne society of the high school initiated new members at the home of Miss Ricketts. After the ceremony dancing, music, and refreshments were enjoyed. The initiates were: Misses Auld, Hammond, Thorpe, Guiggs, Dobson, Watkins, Murray, Fowler, Alice Auld, Mosher, Nicholson, DePutron. The members present were: Misses White, Reede, Beriet, Helen Piper, Cunningham, Alice and Elna Spears, Elsie Piper, Schlesinger, Camp, Howard, Craig, McWhinnie, Robt, Branson, Jennie Piper, Snively, Spalding, Williams, Case, Towne, Backus, Doncombe.

Friday evening the young ladies of the Union Literary society at the university tendered a novel and enjoyable Hallowe'en party reception and entertainment to their gentlemen friends. The chandelier lights in Union hall were enveloped in expressive tissue covering in imitation of pumpkin jack-o'-lanterns, and cast their spectre-like phantoms and ghostly shadows on the carpet, couches, and chairs. Fortune-revealing mysteries, charades, and stage exhibitions in conundrum consumed the first part of the evening. Light refreshments and jokes were then served. Quite unexpectedly the lights were muffled and the black messenger of nightly shades appeared. From out the gloomy stillness arose the voice of one from the stage reciting a mystic tale of graves and apparitions and orgies. Another story from the realms of dream-distilling dreamland portending ill fate left a fear-struck crowd of students to hurry to their respective destinations and there pass the remainder of the night in recovering from the effects.

On Friday night Miss Julia Dewese gave a "Backwards party," which, being interpreted is a masquerade at which the masks are worn on the back of the head. Dancing, music, and puzzles were enjoyed. The refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated with cut flowers and smilax. Prizes for correctly guessing the greatest number of maskers were earned by Miss Hall and Mr. Weil; those in a guessing puzzle were won by Miss Everett and Mr. Rathburn. The following were present: Misses Moore, Trickey, Hathaway, Ilapnie, Clarke, Leavitt, Tyler, Cauger, Hyde, Speier, Jones, Benton, Schlesinger, Keith, Everette, and Hall; Messrs. McConiff, Culbertson, Johnson, Ewing, Ryan, Rathburn, Weil, Fletcher, Gardner, and Dewese.

The Young Ladies' Society of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church sent out the following suggestive invitation, which was responded to by about fifty persons. A little silken bag for the "cents" was attached to each invitation:
Examine your shoe with greatest care,
And find your number written there;
Multiply this by two, plus three,
Express the result in cents, to be
Enclosed within this little sack;
Please either send or bring it back.
Be not timid, but fear withhold,
We promise the number shall never be told,
And if on Wednesday of next week
The "Lahr" home you will kindly seek,
You will receive for this small fee
Something nice, come and see.

Dr. Wharton addressed the society, and a program of music and recitations was given, after which cake and coffee were served. About fifteen dollars was realized from the entertainment.

The young ladies of the university school of music enjoyed a masquerade on Hallowe'en. They began with a grand march and had programs and all complete arrangements as though the party were not given "just for the girls." The halls were lighted with jack o' lanterns. Refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Kimball, Misses Biltgen, Kimball, Bradt, Dimmick, Kellogg, Kimball, Graham, Dally, Bartz, Andrews, Barbour, Hutchinson, Craner, Guthrie, Guthrie, McDonald, King, McClure, Jorgenson, Worley, Sawyer, Biggs, Jennings, Meredith, Briggs, Sall.

Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves gave a brilliantly successful euchre party yesterday afternoon to about forty ladies. The prizes were unusually elegant; they were a handsome salad bowl, a beautiful Battenburg center piece, a dainty water color and an illustrated book
