

LITERARY NOTES.

THE BOER GIRL AT HOME.

Much has been said of the sturdy, frugal Dutch farmers of the Transvaal, but little is known of their sweethearts, wives and daughters, who have contributed so largely to the prosperity of the South African Republic. Consequently, an article on "The Boer Girl of South Africa," by the author of "Oom Paul's People," to appear in the January Ladies' Home Journal, will be interesting.

HOW GIRLS MAY SEE PARIS ALONE.

A bright American girl is going to tell, in The Ladies' Home Journal, how she and a girl friend went to Paris together, saw its sights, visited all places of interest, lived there and had "the time of our lives," as she explains the experience. In three gossip articles all the points of interest in and about the French capital will be treated and briefly described, and how to live well at small cost—in fact, just how girls going alone to Paris can best and cheapest enjoy the trip will be explained. Of course, these experiences are intended to serve as a guide for girls going to the Paris Exposition in 1900.

The name of Henryk Sienkiewicz, author of "Quo Vadis," is familiar to every reading American, yet, so far as we know, it has never been signed to anything in an American magazine. In the December Century, however, will be found a prose-poem of his, Englished by his authorized translator, Jeremiah Curtin, and not yet published even in Polish. It is called "The Judgment of Peter and Paul on Olympus."

Its funny how ridiculous people get over fads.
Yes, indeed. For instance, every girl seems anxious to have red hair except the ones who were born with it.
Although dancing is not an intellectual occupation, it is quite intellectual enough for the people who are fond of it
