The Ciceronian debating society of the Lincoln high school held a preliminary debate on Tuesday evening at the high school to select speakers for a debate with the Demosthenes debating society of the Omaha high school. The speakers were: Messrs. Sawyer, McWilliams, Ryon, Tobin, Warren, Ludden, Wheeler, McDonald, White and Hodges. The speakers chosen were: Messrs. Wheeler, Tobin, Sawyer and White as alternate. Doctor Hindman and Mr. Roscoe Pound acted as judges. The debate was very interesting and instructive.

The Freshman class gave a party on Friday evening at the home of Miss Susie Wallace. All the faculty were invited and about seventeen responded. Divided by rival camps and other games the evening passed pleasantly. The party was disturbed by the Ciceroneans who were initiating a new member.

Miss Edith Robbins entertained the Hawthorn literary society on Saturday last.

Misses Sylvia Beatty, Bertha Danman, Sara Seybolt and Pearl Hall will give a party at Walsh hall on Monday evening.

The art classes under Professor Neely are making rapid improvement. They have been working under great disadvantages in having no fixed abiding place but at last they have settled in room 103. The line of work has been both instructive and interesting and consists in sketching from plaster casts, from life and from the artistic models which Mr. Neely provides. The class meets on Mondays and Fridays.

The high school pupils, to their shame be it said, are not over careful to get to school on time. This is not only very careless but selfish as well for it deprives those who assemble on time of the healthful exercises of the day.

World's Great Men.

From what little we know of his early life and inheritance Shakespeare seems to have been less entitled to fortune than any of the world's great men. The son of probably almost illiterate parents, and brought up in the unintellectual and prosaic atmosphere of an insignificant agricultural village, fortune seems to have done nothing to excite and develop his imagination, and very little to increase his knowledge of mankind. His very modest success in London seems to have been in spite of fortune's frowns, and he seems to have escaped the cold welcome of the metropolis as soon as he could. There was neither example nor rivalry to stimulate his efforts, nor foreign travel to mature his knowledge.

Emperor as Godfather.

The German emperor has consented to stand godfather to the twin sons of a coachman at Giesorf. He has also made their parents a handsome present of money and has given permission for the babies to be christened William I. and William II. These names will appear in the church register. The twins are the seventh and eighth sons of their parents.
