Last Sunday, Palm Sunday was the entrance day to Holy Week. The service of the day is beautiful, and in Latin countries it is certainly a picturesque sight, besides being significant with the thought of the day, to see the small carts filled with palm branches and the passers-by each with a green leaf that has been or is to be blessed by priest, bishop or cardinal. Holy Week cannot but recall Rome with its thousands of guests, just now, its mystic maze of magnificent churches, its ceremonies without number, its glorious music, especially "the angel choir," its priests, its bishops, its cardinals and its pope. No wonder "all roads lead to Rome."

In the Catholic world, in the English church, and in the ritualistic Episcopal churches the strict observance of Holy Week is apparently growing among their society members. In the old world, in New York and Baltimore many women of fashion go into retreat there being special services held for them in some of the large convents. For Easter there is a particular Paris custom that has come over to us and been adopted by numerous churches. It is called "la quete," it being merely the collection, except that on Easter the usher in taking up the offering is always accompanied by some woman of position and fashion.

Mrs. Charles Hammond and Miss Hammond entertained a number of people very happily on Saturday. A Kensington was the order of the afternoon and the guests spent industrious moments with their various bits of embroidery. A musical program added greatly to the enjoyment of the afternoon. Miss Andrus of Washington, gave a mandolin solo, which was enthusiastically received. Miss Tressa Salle and Miss Tina Bradt brought pleasure with their vocal solos. Miss Poynter related a love tale in a very unaffected, charming way; Miss Charlotte Clark gave a brilliant piano number, and Miss Hammond with much persuasion yielded to playing a waltz from Chopin. The guests found their partners for the luncheon that followed by matching silks given them to embroider on a piece of canvas, on which was stamped a boot, there being in each case four boots to be outlined in the same colors. A silver thimble was presented to Mrs. Metcalf, as the one whose boot presented the most perfect outline stitch, and to Mrs. W. G. L. Taylor was given a celluloid thimble as a consolation gift. The invited guests were: Mesdames C. Gere, J. W. Winger, H. P. Eames, L. C. Richards, Guy Brown, H. E. Lewis, L. C. Burr, H. H. Wilson, R. M. Turner, A. W. Field, A. S. Tibbets, H. H. Wheeler, F. W. Eason, C. H. Morrill, Tobias Castor, Eli Plummer, Andrus, Fling, A. Metcalf, Leming, Houtz, John Reed, Kirker, M. H. Everett, Bowman, H. Miss Mignon Trickey entertained some of the members of the J. O. C. club on Saturday, April the seventh. A very gay, happy evening was spent in card playing and dancing. The invited guests were: Joyce Broady, Cleon Moore, Leona Stonebaugh, Jeanette Palmer, Pauline Whitcome, Fred Hall, Will Jacobs, Herbert State, Jack McConniff, Carl Bentley, Charlie Whedon and David Bomgardner.

Mrs. Charles H. Morrill gave a luncheon on Wednesday at one o'clock. The table was handsome with cut glass, silver and flowers. Six courses were served. The guests were: Mesdames Rewick, Lamb, W. J. Turner, Harris, Burlingim, Calvert, Taylor, George Clark, Kelley of Red Cloud, Nance, Talbot and Miss Harris.

Madame MacLean left Monday for Iowa City. Madame MacLean is a great favorite with Lincoln people and it was pleasure indeed to have her here once again.

Les Bohemiennes met on Wednesday with Mrs. Griffith.

Mrs. Henry Hartley entertained the Century club on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. E. Campbel spoke of the literature, science, music and drama of Holland. Miss Stewart played one of Sieveking's compositions.

Marion Watkins—wee maiden—entertained her friends on Tuesday afternoon in honor of her sixth birthday.

The Faculty club met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Barbour. An ingenious game of book titles, that caused much amusement, was played. Eleanor Barbour and Blossom Wilson acted out many of the titles in a very clever manner. Mrs. Foesler won the prize as the most proficient guesser of the afternoon.

The Athenae club met with Mrs. Harley on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. M. H. Everett went to Chicago on Wednesday to visit Doctor and Mrs. Harry Everett.

Mrs. L. W. Garoutte entertained at euchre on Friday afternoon, April sixth, in honor of Mrs. Frank Van Hora and Mrs. R. M. Simons of Denver. The invited guests were: Mesdames Simons, Van Horn, Le Gore, Usher, Spencer, Guenzel, C. I. Jones, Elias Baker, Jewell, Casebeer, Whiting, F. W. Hill, Hayes, and Davis. Pretty souvenirs of the Easter season were presented to each guest.

The Congregational club will give a banquet April the eighteenth.

Mrs. Wendling, an honorary member of the L. A. Kensington, entertained the members of the club on Monday afternoon. The afternoon was a delightful one. Mrs. Rewick was asked into the membership fold and was made welcome with greetings of wit and good will. Mrs. Wendling served a two course luncheon to her guests who were: Mesdames W. J. Turner, Patrick, Wilkinson, Van Brunt, F. E. Campbell, Jones, Chapin, Humphrey, Billmeyer, Kennard, and Miss Weeks and Miss Foster of Chicago. The club has de-
