

ing room was hung in yellow and white, the club colors, the bunting going from the four corners of the room to the centre from which a yellow and white umbrella was suspended. Pineapple ice and cakes were served and later the guests gathered around the punch bowl. Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Sherdeman, Mrs. Widener, Mrs. Laur and Mrs. Traphagen offered toasts, wishing Mrs. Marshall bon voyage and much happiness.

The Lincoln chapter of P. E. O. gave a musical at the home of Mrs. G. A. Stuart on Tuesday evening. The guests numbered about one hundred. There was a delightful musical program:

Piano—Du bist die Ruh (Schubert) Miss Stuart.

Soprano Solos—Murmuring Zephyrs (Jensen), And I (Gaynor), Miss Amber Barnaby.

Violin—Tannhauser March (Wagner) Miss Marie Shepherd.

Tenor Solo—Mr. A. A. Scott.

Contralto Solos—A Necklace of Pearls (Nevin), The Night Hath a Thousand Eyes (Nevin), Miss Reynolds.

Soprano Solo—Mrs. O'Neil.

After the musical there was an informal reception. The theme of color in the dining room was yellow and white. The flowers were snowballs and bridal wreath. Ices were served.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley gave a reception on Wednesday afternoon. She received in the drawing room with her sister, Miss McClure of Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The mantel was a bower of smilax, with here and there bouquets of the fairy white bridal wreath. Smilax formed an airy tracery of green over every opportune arch, grill or mantel in the house. The lights were shaded in pink, and pink and white were the color themes used in all the rooms both on the first and second floors. Mrs. Putnam, Miss Saunders and Mrs. Yates assisted on the first floor. Mrs. Kelley's new home has rich, soft rugs, and beautiful draperies, and what crowns it all a hostess with wonderful charm of manner. Mr. Kelley's den which was gayly draped and cushioned, bespoke comfort in its very effect and received many admiring glances. The dining room had pink roses in abundance for its reigning flower. On the side board were La France roses and the table centre was a great bowl of pink and white roses. The gas globes had pink shades and pink tapers flickered their mellow light. Mrs. Beman Dawes in white silk, presided at the coffee urn. Sandwiches were served. Those assisting were: Mrs. Ross Curtice, Mrs. Lew Marshall, Miss Putnam, Miss Carson and Miss Gahan, who wore either gowns of pink or white. On the second floor in a room fairy-like with smilax and flowers Mrs. Lamberton, with a background of tall palms, served a pink ice. She was assisted by Mesdames Tilton, Irvine and Will Green. The Ideal Mandolin orchestra played during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keefer entertained informally at cards on Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. J. W. Chamberlain. High five made the hours pass quickly. Mrs. Stonebraker won the royal prize, a fancy picture, and Mr. Richard O'Neil won the gentleman's prize. A supper of good things was served. The invited guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames Stonebraker, Rudd, H. A. Lee, O'Neil, Mrs. Cropey, Miss Bradt of Beatrice, and Miss Ashton.

The picnic of the Good Times Euchre club has been postponed until Tuesday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hargreaves will entertain a number of people this evening at cards.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wright will give a seven o'clock tea on Sunday evening to a few friends and their out-of-town guests. Those invited are: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ewen of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Marsland, Miss Oakley, Mrs. Griffith, Mr. Clarke and Mr. Whedon of Chicago.

Mrs. Louie M. Allen entertained the junior members of her music class Wednesday evening. A musical program was given, consisting of piano solos, duets and selections by a juvenile mandolin club, after which refreshments were served. The following children were present: Carrie Bradley, Minnie Swezy, Ruth Walters, Emma Swezy, Etta Wolf, Emma Schroder, Lena Wetzel, Minnie Hay, Neva Aylevin, Lela Smith, Gladys Stewart, Henry Wolf, James Harpham and Pearl Hook.

Mrs. E. Hallett leaves this morning for a visit to her old home in Ottumwa, Iowa. She will be gone several weeks.

Mrs. Mary E. Phillips and Mrs. William C. Phillips gave a reception Thursday afternoon. Smilax hung from the arches, was wound over the chandeliers and up the balustrade. Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. Addison Marshall and Mrs. Frank Hall were in the reception hall to direct the guests to the drawing room, where Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. W. C. Phillips received. Mrs. Phillips was gowned in black and white foularde, made with an effective vest with garnishings of white applique. Mrs. W. C. Phillips' gown was white organdy. The bodice was tucked and trimmed with many lace frills. There were snowballs and lilies of the valley in vases about the rooms, and the lights were shaded in pink. Mrs. Yates, in lavender silk, and Mrs. D. M. Butler, in a gown of the Manila pino cloth, assisted in directing the guests to the other rooms. In the library and in the morning room meteor roses were used in vases and bowls. The lights had red shades and the chandeliers were like graceful green stems with their covering of smilax. Mrs. Winnett, Mrs. W. D. FitzGerald and Mrs. Frank Lahr assisted in the library, and Mrs. Gertrude Welch, Miss Givens, Miss Polk, Mrs. Seacrest and Mrs. Hardy in the morning room. The dining room was lovely to behold, so fresh, so pink, and yet so white it was. Pink tapers burned on the sideboard and on the table. The sideboard was a luxurious bed of roses and green. The dining table had a beautiful center of Mexican drawn work, and there were doilies here and there of exquisite work. The flowers were la France roses. Mrs. Heinman poured and Mrs. Clinton R. Lee served pink ices. They were both gowned in white and were assisted by the Misses Hammond, Chambers, Marian Parks, Mildred Parks, Hill and Mary Craig. The punch room on the second floor had yellow for its color scheme. The yellow frieze, the yellow curtains and screens, the bunches of wide-awake daisies, and bowls of yellow pansies with garnishings of ferns gave to the room a very happy, May-time countenance. Mrs. E. Lewis Baker, in a yellow mousseline de soie, presided at the punch bowl. She was assisted by the Misses Hartley, Edith Craig and McWhinnie. Helen Phillips, in a gown of yellow and white, invited the guests to the punch room and Dorothy Phillips stood at the head of the stairs and directed the guests to the dressing rooms. The Ideal Mandolin orchestra played delightfully throughout the afternoon.

A dancing party was given Wednesday evening in Walsh hall in honor of the new sorority, Omega Psi. The hall was decorated with cardinal bunting and red carnations and banks of palms. An owl, the presiding genius of the new sorority, was much in evidence. Those present were the Misses Jackson, Jaynes,
