Captain Williams is detailed to return with the "Lucky Ship" Baltimore, he being the only officer left of the fighting crew which is escorting Admiral Watson from Manila. The young captain's return to his Williamsburg home, is eagerly awaited, not only by his parents Professor and Mrs. Byron Williams, but by the entire city which will welcome his home coming.

The Matinee Musicale board met on Friday evening with the president, Mrs. E. Lewis Baker, at 2511 R street. The important business of the meeting was the arrangement of the second artists' recital, for February 4. This engagement is to be filled by the famous New York violinist, Miss Maude Powell, of national reputation. The board was fully represented, and after the business session resolved itself into a porch party upon the airy veranda of the president, where an ice was served. For the first artists' recital, November 1, it will be remembered that the board has engaged Mrs. Wakely, the contralto, well known on both sides of the ocean, and especially remarked for her work with the Persian Garden last year. The third recital is yet to be arranged.
