Married at Omaha, at high noon on Wednesday, at St Barnabas church, by Father Williams, Miss Jessie A. Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dickinson, to Doctor Henry Stoddard Lyman. The church was beautifully decorated. The altar, lighted by candles, was hidden by American Beauties and the chancel was banked with palms. A large American Beauty rose was fastened to each pew. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Lohengrin march. The bride on the arm of her father, wore an imported princess gown of Venetian point and duchess lace. Miss Oakley was bridesmaid. Miss Mae Mount, the maid of honor, wore a beautiful gown of renaissance lace over green satin. The bridal party was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Wallace of Salt Lake City. Mr. Gannett, Mr. Frank Hamilton, Mr. Joseph Morsman and Mr. Edgar Morsman, were ushers. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the family and intimate friends. Doctor and Mrs. Lyman left in the afternoon for New York. They will be at home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson, Park avenue, upon their return.

Since school began, it is almost impossible to secure caddies in the morning, and anyone who plays golf knows what a "caddy less" game is. Even with some of our caddies the game is much as our friend Dooly describes it: "You hit the ball and if you find it the same day you win." At three o'clock however, these bright and shining lights of the green appear, to work for one for ten cents a round. Good advice free of charge. The links are in better condition than they have been all summer, especially the fair greens. Artistic putting will never be accomplished until the putting greens are sodded, as the coarse grass deflects the ball from its course. Among those who have made low scores are: Messrs. Hall, Hammond and F. W. Brown, forty-seven being the lowest made.

Mrs. Goeper's is the place to buy millinery as the styles are good and the prices right.

Given free, a pair of "Sorosis," the new shoe for women, or a pair of the "Walkover," the new shoe for men, to the person making the best amateur picture of the elegant display in our new window. Webster & Rodgers, 1043 O street.
