A MIGHTY SALE OF SILKS

As we stated a few days ago we purchased an immense lot of silks from an importer whose overstock disturbed him and who was anxious to dispose of it—even at a loss. We relieved him of a considerable portion for he offered us a rare price inducement.

The lot is on sale now and the prices represent the wholesale value of the goods. It's a chance that only comes once in years, for it makes silk-buying a possibility for everyone. We bought the lot at a fraction of its worth and MUST dispose of it before the holiday selling begins. Here are some of the offerings:

- Fancy Taffetas, all pure silk, in black, purple, gobelin blue, cardinal and navy, excellent quality, worth 65c, sale price, per yard..... 35c evening, November the twenty-third, to a large number of their friends. Palms and chrysanthemums were in abundance. Those who received were, Messrs. and Mesdames Coffin, Casebeer, Witter, Newbecker and Mr. W. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Garoutte entertained the Monday Night Euchre club last Monday evening. Members of the club present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Hill, Casebeer, Jewell, Hibner, Sine, Whiting, Turner, Hutchinson and Klinker. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, and Mr. and Mrs. Jakway.

Miss Jean Tuttle entertained the members of Kappa Alpha Theta Friday evening in honor of Miss Jane Macfarland.

Mrs. Henry D. Estabrook, 524 Dearborn avenue, Chicago, gave a reception last week to introduce her daughter, Miss Blanch Estabrook to society. The hours were from 5 to 7 o'clock and gentlemen as well as ladies were invited. Mrs. Estabrook wore black net over white satin, spangled with cut steel and jet. The debutante was attired in white point d'esprit over taffeta and carried a bunch of white violets. Assisting in receiving were: Mesdames A. T. Galt, W. S. Chapman, F. W. Gorkin, George B. Harris, Julia Holmes Smith, Edward A. Bigelow, Horace M. Kennedy. The young women who presided at the tea table were: Misses Helen Stewart, Edith Kohlsaat, William, Edith Key, Kohlsaat, Elizabeth Sellers, Marion Strong, Emily Lyons. In the evening the young people danced. Mrs. and Miss Estabrook will be at home Wednesdays in December.

The household economics department of the Woman's club of Seward met with Mrs. George F. Dickman Saturday afternoon, November 17. Practical demonstrations in the making of coffee were given by Mrs. Merriam. Mrs. Dickman prepared macaroni and cheese before the club, and Mrs. Franklin made a cream pudding and scientifically compounded the ingredients before an interested audience. After these articles of food had been prepared the ladies discussed decorations for a Thanksgiving table. Many novel ideas were given, and then menus that were hygienic for Thanksgiving dinners were mentioned. Mesdames Carey, Schultz and Stoner were on the committee for table decorations, and after the program was completed the club was invited to the dining room, where the table was decorated in autumn flowers and fruits. The center piece was berries of the mountain ash. Chrysanthemums were the flowers used, and on the corners of the table were small green or yellow pumpkins, fashioned into quaint baskets filled with bonbons or nuts. The two-course lunch which had been prepared by the demonstrators, was then served the club.

Nebraskans, though they would have enjoyed the greater glory of completely defeating Minnesota, were proud and happy over the fine playing of the Nebraska team and the creditable score of 20 to 12.

The Wednesday club (formerly the Social Literary Circle) of Crete celebrated its fifteenth anniversary on November 14, when a banquet was held at the Cosmopolitan hotel. Fifty-five members, past and present, were bidden to the feast, each privileged to invite one guest. The lapse of time has made many changes, and former members of the club are now scattered from Massachusetts to California, and from Montana to Texas. Those unable to be present sent letters of greeting and congratulation, which were read in response to roll call. The program which followed the banquet was presented as follows:

- Piano duet—Mesdames Fleming and Bennett.
- Toasts—(Toastmistress, Mrs. J. P. Clary, Omaha); Cheerful Yesterdays, Miss E. M. Thompson; What Club Life Is to the Members, Mrs. Z. Waterman; The Other Fellow, Mrs. A. V. Mathews; Clubs from the Standpoint of the "Worse Half," Professor H. F. Doane; Promising Tomorrows, Mr. M. H. Fleming.
- Vocal solo—Mrs. H. F. Doane.
- Roll call.
- Vocal duet—Mesdames Mathews and Andrews.

A history of the club showed steady progress throughout a course of high grade literary work, also a warm feeling of social unity, and the successful achievement of several philanthropic enterprises. The present work of the club is a continuance of the past two years' study of art and Browning.

Congressman and Mrs. Burkett gave a dinner Monday evening to Messrs. and Mesdames Munger, Stephenson, Cochran and Spencer.

Mrs. A. D. Burr, her daughter Maud and son Harold have returned to Lincoln after an absence of nearly two years.

Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Burt Richards entertained about fifty ladies at a Kensington Tuesday afternoon. Guessing names of advertisements from pictures pinned on the wall afforded considerable amusement. Mrs. Carney of Meeker, Colorado, won the prize for guessing the greatest number of pictures correctly. During the afternoon sweet music was heard from the Ideal Mandolin club.

The fourth entertainment of the series to be given at the auditorium this season, was given last Saturday evening by Mrs. Katherine Fisk, Mrs. Fisk has been heard here several times before. In her program Saturday evening, aside from her well nigh endless repertory of oratorio and aria, Mrs. Fisk has made extremely popular her delightful ballad recitals in French, German, Scotch and English which are exceptionally pleasing and entertaining. Miss Sally Sherwood Betts was the accompanist. The following program was given:
