

Who has not longed to see the stately minuet as it was danced by our dignified and reserved ancestors arranged in the striking colonial costumes. The booths are representative and the occupants wear costumes typical of the countries and characters which they represent.

In the United States booth, in charge of Mrs. Ladd, there are the following characters: George Washington, Mr. Hays Martha Washington, Mrs. Ladd; Uncle Sam, Dr. Ladd, Goddess of Liberty, Mrs. Griffith; Indians, Powhatan and Pocahontas; Quakeresses, Mesdames, Horton, Holyoke; Misses Frankish, Ames, Watkins; army and navy soldier girls, Misses Gahan and Hays; jolly jack tars, Messrs. Raymond and Manchester; cow boy character, Mrs. Marshall; Cuban lady, Mrs. Freeman; colonial dame, Mrs. Henry; colonial maids, Misses Garten, Cole, Cochrane, Welch; macaronies, Messrs. Butler, Hays, McCreery and Edmisten.

The French booth is in charge of Mesdames McMurtry, Eames and Fling, assisted by Mesdames Frye, Hull of Omaha, Misses Putnam, Hargreaves, McHenry, McFarland, Morgan, Foster and Harwood; Messrs. Bonnell, Joyce, Richards, Butler, Richeson and Prof. White.

The booth represents a French peasant's cottage, and the costumes from different provinces. The typical ice cream cart is in evidence and "boissons Americaines" is served in the booth. French peasant songs and dances are given and the French wooden shoes are for sale. They are quite different from those of Holland. There are some tiny ones that are nice for souvenirs.

Mesdames Lewis, Richards, Munger and Bessey are assisting in arranging the Turkish booth. Messrs. Charles Gregorian, and Torossian are there in Turkish costumes, and sing Armenian songs and give entertaining snatches of recitations in Armenian Turkish and Arabic. Miss Anderson and the Nebraska college of oratory represent an oriental story teller, and in the character of Scheherazade tell at intervals some of the famous Arabian Nights tales in oriental style and before the caliph. A large audience is allowed to gather before the booth to listen. Misses Woods and Cunningham are present as two Turkish ladies in Turkish house costumes, and assist in showing guests to beauties of the booths. Turkish pilak is served at any time, and every one is urged to taste this appetizing dish made according to a Constantinople recipe.

The Swedish and Norwegian booth, in charge of Mrs. Edgren and Miss Barr, assisted by Mrs. Earnstedt. Misses Rogers, Muir and Edgren represent a typical peasant home in the province of Dalaruc. Here, for a small price, sandwiches peculiar to this province, and milk is served by those in the booth dressed in the national costumes of Sweden and Norway. On the outside of the booth is exhibited pictures and fancy work peculiar to the two countries. Swedish dances are given by eight young ladies in the national costume, who were trained by Miss Barr.

The music of the troubadours at the Spanish booth is entrancing. Mrs. Ode Rector as a Spanish lady and Miss Helen Welch as a peasant with hand organ is in charge. Chester Sumner is a troubadour and Mrs. Lau a Spanish fortune teller.

Germany is represented by one of its public gardens called, "Kaur Sall. Under its green trees the visitors listen to a German band and try the wiener sausages and rye bread served by peasant girls. Mesdames Howe and Mansfield are in charge, assisted by Mesdames Cracker, Mnllyn and the Misses Burruss.

A realistic bit of Philippine life is arranged by Miss Hartley and Mrs. Welch, Misses Piper and Schlesinger are dressed like the natives of the north islands and Messrs. Sears, Wharton, Mathewson and Johnson wear the costumes of the southern islands.

It is many years since any local entertainment of such magnitude has been undertaken in this city and a large proportion of the prominent people of the city have entered the work with the greatest enthusiasm.

Died in Chicago, on Wednesday, February 27, Mrs. Ellen Booker, mother of Mrs. W. R. Dawes. The body was interred in Wyuka cemetery of Lincoln on Friday.

University Notes.

Miss Morrill entertained the Pi Beta Phi last Saturday afternoon at cards. A dainty lunch was served.

The effects of the vaccination show themselves in the small attendance of some classes, and the diminishing in size of the cadet battalion. Considerable trouble is being experienced by the students.

A telegram from Leland Stanford university has been received stating that it would be impossible to entertain the Nebraska debaters. As it is hardly possible that Nebraska can bring the debaters here from California. It is safe to say there will be no debate this year between these colleges.

A meeting of the senior class was held Saturday. It was reported that the boys of the class would soon appear with hats and canes. After some discussion, it was decided that the boys would not introduce the innovation of wearing gowns on commencement day. Arrangements were also made for the senior party on March 1.

A dramatic club will be formed from the members of the elocution classes, it has been the intention of Miss Howells, instructor, to have the divisions give separate entertainments, but this idea has been abandoned. This will not be compulsory, but owing to the advantages of the club, the prospects for a membership are good.

Omaha Notes.

General C. F. Manderson was able to get out of doors this week for a little airing. His condition is improving daily and his friends hope for a quick return to his normal health.

Last night, in the rooms of the Commercial club a reception was given by the Sons of the American Revolution to the Daughters of the American Revolution, quite an elaborate program of entertainment having been arranged, which was delightfully carried out. The invitations were handsomely gotten up in red, white and blue, with a picture of Washington at the head and the evening's program below. Compatriot L. P. Funkhouser presided, and after the reception, which was held from eight until nearly nine, the music began with a solo by Mr. Jo Barton, who sang "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," the whole assembly joining in the chorus with patriotic fervor. Then followed an address on "Washington, the Warrior," by Mr. Roscoe Pound of Lincoln. Solo by Mr. Barton, "A Thousand Years." Address by Mr. Luther M. Kuhns on "Washington, the Statesman." Recitation, "The American Flag," by Mr. J. W. Battin. Essay, "Washington, the Capital Builder," by Mrs. Charles S. Lobinger, D.A.R. "Solo, Star Spangled Banner," by Miss Anna Bishop, D.A.R. Essay, "Home Life of Washington," by Mrs. A. Allen, D.A.R. Hymn, "America," by Mr. Jo Barton. The program was interspersed with selections by the mandolin orchestra, and refreshments were served and the whole evening was thoroughly enjoyable, every one entering heartily into the spirit of the day and making the rooms ring with the
