An elaborate reception was given Thursday evening by Miss Auld, 2506 N street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Finarty. The guests were received in the hall by Miss Bonnell; Mr. and Mrs. Auld received at the foot of the stairs, and Miss Auld and Mr. and Mrs. Finarty were in the receiving line. Miss Auld and Mrs. Finarty were gowned in white. The Ideal Mandolin orchestra was stationed in the reception room. Miss Josephine Porter, Miss Winifred Bonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. Stubr and Mr. H. Peterson assisted Miss Auld in entertaining the guests. The library was decorated in red, and punch was served there by Miss Garnet Geer, who wore a red and black gown. She was assisted by Misses Koehler, Lummary and Murphy. The dining room walls and ceiling were draped with white, and bridal roses and white carnations were lavishly used in the decorations. Miss Tibbets presided, assisted by Misses Marjory Watkins, Jessie Mosher, Ruth Baker, Georgia Fields and Alice Auld, all of whom wore white gowns. The guests were Judge and Mrs. Tibbets, Dr. and Mrs. Hill, Messrs. and Mesdames Teeters, Watkins, Schwake, Klinker, A. Scott, Robbins, McGrew, Gund, Rieger, Field, C. I. Comptroller and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes are visiting friends in the city. Mr. Dawes left for Dixon, Illinois, today, where he is to deliver a memorial day address. When he returns to Lincoln next Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Dawes will visit Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burnham. Mr. Dawes is the benefactor of so many Lincoln people that for this reason and for his many loveable qualities, his visits are very welcome. Lincoln society endeavors to express the gratification which it feels for Mr. and Mrs. Dawes' friendship by various celebrations. On his return to Chicago Mr. Dawes will undertake an active candidacy for United States senatorship to succeed Senator Mason of Illinois. There is little doubt that he will be successful. Meanwhile he has the active sympathy of numerous friends and believers in most of the states of this country.

The ladies' commercial auxiliary and their husbands were entertained last Saturday evening by Mrs. E. M. McBride, Mrs. W. V. Townsend and Mrs. L. E. Evans, at the home of the latter. Progressive high five was the entertainment; the royal prizes were won by Mrs. Townsend and Mr. George Evans and the consolation prizes by Mrs. Widener and Mrs. Sine. Music was furnished by Miss Florence Townsend and refreshments were served by the hostesses. The guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames W. Widener, T. F. Laech, L. P. Sine, G. A. Evans, O. W. Wollenberg, T. Robinson, E. M. McBride, L. E. Evans, W. V. Townsend, Mrs. Webb
