FASHION LETTER.

Lady Modish in Town Topics.

If fine lingerie ever does appeal to women it is during these hot months, while sojourning at seaside and country resorts. Petticoats are the principal features of the Modishes' summer lingerie and the one to which we devote most time and attention. A New York girl recently took a trunkful of white petticoats when she went to a Rhode Island resort. It requires great ingenuity to design a half dozen, let alone a trunkful, of beautiful petticoats, and have them entirely unlike and equally satisfactory. Those of silk are not so popular during the summer, as the damp, salt air is a foe to the freshness, often ruining the delicate coloring and absolutely suppressing the rustle.

One of the most effective has lace edging of black on palest blue silk. There are four side-pleated flounces, and each one is vandyked. This makes an exceedingly fluffy and pretty petticoat. Another, on the same order, is of white, with white lace insertion let in each flounce, and is garnished at intervals with ribbon bows. But these silks are not to be mentioned with the exquisite thin white nainsooks which have usurped their place in popularity with summer matron and maid. This season's models have never been surpassed in fine needlework and delicate embroideries. One shows an embroidery pattern of fanciful design worked in the nainsook. Each figure is then hemstitched in a square, the work all being done by hand. The second row of hemstitching, to match the first, is done about a half inch from it, making an unusual sort of trimming, and one appreciated by lovers of fine needlework.

A fine nainsook petticoat has one knee flounce, with a deep insertion of real duchesse lace, about three inches from the hem. The smooth-fitting top or body of this petticoat was entirely of fine tucking. This is something decidedly new in petticoats, and will most likely be a success, as skirts of this sort are so effective with negligee jackets for boudoir wear. They are fastened with wide ribbon ties of white, with long, flowing ends and short loops. The dust flounce underneath the deep outside one shows two fairly wide ruffles of the nainsook to make it stand out well about the bottom.

Those popular petticoats made of perpendicular rows of tucks and insertions, alternating to form a deep flounce, are still holding their own in popularity. They are difficult to "do up," but are most effective and serviceable. Every Modish has at least three of these in her trunk.

Resigned to His Fate.

In the early Indiana days, when both judges and attorneys literally "rode the circuit," a newly elected judge, noted for his lack of personal beauty, was plodding along on horseback between two county seats one fine summer day. Passing through a piece of woods he was suddenly confronted by a hunter, who unslung his squirrel rifle from his shoulder and ordered the horseman to dismount.

Somewhat startled by this peremptory command and the fact that the hunter was, if possible, even more deficient in facial symmetry than himself, the jurist began to remonstrate. He was quickly cut short, however, by the remark:

"It's no use talking. I long ago swore that if I ever met a homelier man than I am, I'd shoot him on sight!"

The judge was quick-witted, and, sizing up the situation, he promptly got off his horse. Folding his arms, he faced his assailant and said,—

"If I am any homelier than you are, for Heaven's sake, do shoot, and be quick about it!"

Then came a hearty mutual laugh, and a black bottle, produced from the judge's saddlebags, was duly investigated. After this came self-introductions, and the rising jurist gained an enthusiastic supporter for his future campaigns.—E. P. Howe, in August "New" Lippincott.

The Sunday edition of the St. Louis Republic is a marvel of modern newspaper enterprise. The organization of its news service is world-wide, complete in every department; in fact, superior to that of any other newspaper.

The magazine section is illustrated in daintily tinted colors and splendid half-tone pictures. This section contains more high-class literary matter than any of the monthly magazines. The fashions illustrated in natural colors are especially valuable to the ladies.

The colored comic section is a genuine laugh-maker. The funny cartoons are by the best artists. The humorous stories are high-class, by authors of national reputation.

Sheet music, a high-class, popular song, is furnished free every Sunday in The Republic.

The price of the Sunday Republic by mail one year is $2.00. For sale by all news dealers.
