Miss Grace Huntsinger gave a charming dinner Saturday evening. The menu was served in six courses. In honor of George Washington the house was decorated with flags and the national colors. The guests found their places at the table by means of conundrums, the answers to which were the names of presidents of the United States and the place cards bore the names of these presidents. A quaint blue vase filled with red and white carnations was in the center of the daintily appointed table, which was lighted by red, white and blue candles. The hatchet and cherry tree episode was commemorated by paper cases with hatchet shaped tops, and candied cherries on the whipped cream which covered the moulded cranberries. The ice cream was in the form of candles and candle sticks and tiny flags ornamented the cakes. After the dinner the guests were given card board hatchets on which they were told to write things which Washington never saw. Miss Cockrane won a small hatchet tied with red, white and blue ribbons, as a prize. Guests were Misses Cockrane, Watkins, Garten; Messieurs Paine, Baldwin, Walsh and Sherman.
