

LADY CURZON, INDIA'S "AMERICAN VICEREINE"

Society is astir over the coming visit of Lady Curzon, wife of the viceroy of India. As is, of course, well known, Lady Curzon is an American. She was formerly Miss Leiter of Washington and Chicago. Her husband is one of the most popular and prominent peers in political life. Lady Curzon is often called "The American Vicereine." She will remain over here for some time and will be extensively entertained at Newport, R. I., and at Bar Harbor, Me. This is the latest and best photograph of Lady Curzon.

I am glad to see a man
 Always look the best he can,
 Ever wearing on his face a smile serene;
 And I'm always proud of those
 Who are fond of decent clothes,
 Taking pains to keep their Sunday linen clean.
 This old earth has ample use
 For the fellow who looks spruce,
 While the slouchy man is ever shunned and feared.
