

The following from a Sioux City paper is of interest to many Lincoln people as the groom was until recently a resident of this city and the bride has many friends here and has visited here previous to this week:

"One of the prettiest weddings ever celebrated in the city took place on Wednesday evening, when Miss Frances M. Levy, the youngest daughter of Mrs. H. Levy, and Mr. Milton J. Henoch of Louisville, Ky., were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the Levy residence, Rabbi Mannheim of St. Sinai congregation, officiating.

"The wedding throughout followed a color scheme of pink and white, with a setting of green formed by palms, smilax and trailing asparagus. The doors were all draped with ropes of smilax and asparagus, held in place by broad bands of ribbon, in the favorite shades. The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was a veritable bower of roses and beautiful flowers.

"At the appointed hour little Florence Levy, the bride's youthful attendant and niece, in a fairy-like gown of white point d'esprit over pink silk, heralded the descent of the bridal party down stairs. All eyes were centered on the vision of loveliness that met their gaze. The sweet young bride followed, leaning on the arm of her future husband. The bride, who has the southern type of beauty, a tall, graceful brunette, looked superb in the elegant wedding gown of white satin, covered with duchesse lace, embroidered in seed pearls. The long tulle veil completed the ideal wedding gown. In her dark hair nestled a single bride's rose and in her hand she carried a bouquet of bride's roses, as well as a point lace handkerchief.

"Miss Levy will be remembered as one of Sioux City's beauties, as she made quite an impression with her beauty when she represented Cleopatra during the carnival of 1900.

"After the brief and impressive marriage service the bride and groom led the way into the library, where at one long table a most sumptuous seven-course dinner was served. The table was exquisite in its appointments and here again was the color scheme in evidence. The white swan, held by Cupid, with its pink and white hearts, elicited exclamations, for it was an appropriate and beautiful way to close the elaborate menu.

"In the hall upstairs a gorgeous array of cut glass, silver and hand painted china were given as wedding remembrances. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful ring with an emerald, her birth stone, set with two diamonds.

"Mr. Henoch is estimable in every way. He holds a responsible position as civil engineer with the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Mr. Henoch formerly was a resident of Lincoln, Neb., and was very popular there.

"The bride's traveling gown, was a very stylish Russian blouse suit of black broadcloth, lined throughout in white taffeta; a shirt waist of white silk, embroidered in black. Her hat was a most becoming one of black velvet, with a facing of white corduroy, with black applique and white and black plume.

"Noticeable among the lovely toilettes worn was the gown of the bride's mother, Mrs. Levy, who wore a black satin, Louis Hattenbach, sister of the bride, looked very handsome in a pearl gray satin foulard, trimmed in turquoise blue panne velvet and point lace. Miss Beera Levy wore a sweet girlish gown of white embroidered St. Gall's Swiss over taffeta.

"The out of town guests were Mr. A. Levy, Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. B. J. Levy, Louisville, Ky.; Mr. Sol Henoch, Ligonier, Ind.; Mr. Fred Henoch, La Porte, Ind.; Mr. Harry Chaim, Lincoln, Neb."

Mrs. C. Y. Kenworthy and Mrs. Thomas Calanan gave a linen shower Wednesday evening for Miss S. Mabel Klock, who received from her friends many pieces of fine linen. The decorations and refreshments were pink and white. In a characteristic gypsy corner Miss Edith Waterman, in a bewitching costume, read roseate futures in the palms of the guests. Among the guests were Misses Klock, Grace Klock, Hullhorst, Herrick, McFall, McFall, Robinson, Walton, Bowby, Widener, Waterman; Mesdames Shepherd and R. E. Johnson.

The beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Herzog was the scene of an informal reception Tuesday evening, given in honor of Mrs. Herzog's mother, Mrs. William Rothschild of Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Henoch, who made Lincoln one of their stopping places on their wedding journey and were here for but a day. No invitations were issued but quite a number of friends called during the evening. The house was adorned with palms, and light refreshments were served by Miss Fay Herzog and Miss Helen Butler.

A card party, rather a meeting for card playing, was held Saturday evening at the home of Miss Lida Millar, 1102 South Eleventh street. This was a continuation of meetings held for several seasons by Misses Laura Houtz, Darleen Woodward, Frances Cunningham, Clara Hammond, Lida Millar, and Mrs. L. A. Ricketts. Others invited Saturday evening were Mrs. J. S. Matthews, Misses Catherine and Sallie Agnew, Messieurs Rickett's, Kormeyer, Kennard, Roth, Bartlett, Robbins and Doctor Humphrey.

A bride elect remarked the other day that all sorts of showers except a pillow shower had been given for her, and she hoped that some fertile brain would evolve and carry out one of those for her before her marriage, forgetting, perhaps, that these continual showers, amounting sometimes to regular down-pours, are expensive for the girls who participate in them. However, as a girl remarked once upon a time, "they will get it all back sometime."

Kappa Kappa Gamma gave a delightful dancing party Thursday evening at the executive mansion. The parlors and dining room were decorated with red carnations and red candles. A dainty supper was served on small tables scattered through the parlors. The reception hall was decorated with goldenrod and Kappa pennants. The orchestra platform in the ball room was banked with goldenrod, and pennants covered the walls and were suspended from the ceiling. The score cards were gems, done in India ink.

Thursday morning at the home of the Misses Stuart, a theater party Thursday evening and a swimming party this morning.

Delta Delta Delta gave a bowling party Wednesday morning which was greatly enjoyed by the participants, who were Misses Butler, Norval, Faulkner, Kimball, Moore, Perkins, Trickey, Crow, Allen, Dovey, Bonnell, Bignell, Auld, Poynter, Gund, Murray, Casebeer, Cady, Mackin, Chadwick, Reynolds, Losch, Powers, Miller, Roberts, Palmer, Moore, Whitcomb, Sawis and Du Teil.

Mrs. John M. Hamilton left Sunday for Atlanta, Ga., where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Louis Putney. After an extended stay in Atlanta, Mrs. Hamilton will go to Brooklyn, to visit other relatives. Miss Irene Hamilton, who is a university senior, is esconced at the Delta Gamma chapter house for the year. She will spend the holiday vacation in Atlanta.

Kappa Alpha Theta gave a pingpong tournament this afternoon at the home of Miss Agnew. The score cards were yellow with artistic sketches done with pen and ink. The refreshments were suggestive of the game.

Delta Delta Delta gave a chafing dish supper at the chapter house Tuesday evening. Thirty young ladies were present.
