The University of Nebraska football team was given a noisy and intensely enthusiastic greeting on its recent return from Minnesota, after defeating the Gophers by a score of 6 to 0. One of the features of the demonstration was a street parade, in which the victorious gridiron warriors were drawn through the streets in a gilded chariot draped with corn husks, the latter symbolizing their title of Cornhuskers. The above view was snapped at Twelfth and M streets as the parade marched past St. Paul's church.
