The Patriarchs gave a dance Monday night at Walsh hall. Each couple in the club was privileged to invite another couple, thus doubling the number of dancers. The party was a pretty and successful one as are all the parties given by this club.

Miss Ruth Jakway gave a house party Thursday night when the following young ladies were her guests: Misses Helen Laws, Marie Talbot, Edna Baker, Mary Minor, Hazel Vandenburg, Fanchon Hooper, Louise Hoover, Dorrance Harwood, Grace White and Helen Berger.

The old custom of ladies keeping open house on New Year's day, when all of their gentlemen acquaintances were expected to call, has fallen into disuse. This year, in some of the cities, ladies have given New Year's receptions, sending out invitations only to the men of their acquaintance, and differing from the older fashion only by sending the formal invitations.

A pleasant little progressive whist party was given Tuesday evening by the Misses Craig at their home, Twenty-fifth and T streets, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Baxter and Mr. Norman Baxter of Halifax, Nova Scotia, who are spending the winter with their sister, Mrs. A. Ross Hill. Three tables accommodated the players. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. W. A. Green entertained the Atheneia club yesterday. Mrs. E. B. Green talked of Vienna.

The city improvement society will hold its annual meeting next Thursday, when officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

The Century club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday, and on the twentieth will give an open meeting at the home of Mrs. S. H. Atwood.

The Saturday Night club of Butte, Montana, was organized for the promotion of oral speaking, and papers are not admitted in the meetings. Both men and women are admitted to membership.

Mr. M. D. Welch entertained the Round Table at dinner Monday evening. After the repast Reverend F. L. Wharton led in a discussion of the Monroe doctrine.

Members of a Canadian woman's club, organized for literary and sociological study, with a college woman as president, are said to have become so interested in the servant problem that they have resolved to raise the standard of domestic service by going out to service themselves. The authority also states that these clubwomen have found their own town too conservative to carry out their plan in, and the president and five members have decided to go to New York and take places.

The arts and crafts committee of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs are preparing an exhibition for next April which shall cover the handiwork of women all over the country. This is in charge of Mrs. Ada M. Tillinghast of New Bedford and Mrs. Alice E. Whitaker of Winthrop. Home industries in the mountain regions of the south, in Tennessee, North Carolina, northern Georgia and Alabama, and Kentucky, are to be sought for, and Berea college will be called on to show the industries of its vicinity. Work in wood, leather, metals, stained glass, etc., will be shown. The federation has the serious purpose in this display to stimulate honest and substantial work, and to inspire higher ideas of art. For example, they will discourage kitchen ranges ornamented with Raphael's cherubs in castiron. The aim for simplicity and beauty, fitness and honesty in construction, will be held in view, and should make the exhibition of importance. The rug industry started in Maine and New Hampshire, the various Deerfield industries, work of the same sort in Greenfield and elsewhere, will be illustrated. The coming exhibition will be held with the Dorchester Woman's club.

The annual reception of the Woman's club was given Thursday afternoon from three until five o'clock in the library building. The receiving line stood in the auditorium. Mrs. J. W. Johnson presented the guests to Mrs. F. M. Hall, Mrs. F. M. Gibson, Miss Jeanette Green, Mrs. George Schwake and Mrs. H. M. Bushnell, the officers of the club, who were in line, and Mrs. Lobingier of Omaha, a prominent club woman, was with them. By the lavish use of oriental rugs, screens, draperies and pillows the large room was given a homelike look. At a table adorned with red roses and candles, ices were served by Mrs. C. E. Yates, assisted by members of the reception committee. A mandolin club played during the receiving hours. The parlors were converted into oriental apartments decorated with many umbrellas and lanterns. Tea was poured from a samovar by Mrs. W. C. Phillips and was passed by little maids in Japanese costumes. They were Misses Marie Talbot, Margery Atwood, Ruth Lahr, Helen Phillips and Edna Baker. The members of the club were out en masse to exchange New Year's greetings and a few of the husbands shed the radiance of their faces upon the scene.

The Ethical Culture club of Butte, Montana is made up entirely of women, who are breadwinners, any woman in the business or professional world of Butte being eligible to membership.

The club has three departments, one devoted to mental training, one to physical training, one to morals and manners.

Each member is working earnestly to obtain a wider knowledge of all things pertaining to right living and an understanding of the finer things existing, the conditions and environment in which each lives.

The club was organized by a few working women for the purpose of making a center for those who desired to climb toward a higher standard of living by a better understanding of the morals and manners of the world.

There are many delightful conditions existing in the club and each member is made to feel that she is a necessary part of the work therein. The feeling of sympathy, of harmony, of mutual helpfulness that everywhere prevails in the club makes it a little haven, and its influence on the character seems full of power, of hope and moral strength. During the time since the club was organized many of the members have married, and without exception each one has expressed herself as entering upon her new duties with a better understanding of the small and great things of life than could have been hers had she not been a member of the club.

The Social Economics club of Chicago will devote the next two years to the study of the marriage customs of all nations, and of all times. Doctor Frances Dickinson, the president of the club, advocates a contract plan regarding marriages, which she thinks will adjust all disturbances. She says:

"When people marry they should have two contracts—one to satisfy the de-

The Dr. Benj. F. Bailey Sanatorium

Is not a hospital, not a hotel, but a home. The building is situated on a slightly hill at Normal, and is reached by the cars of the Lincoln street railway, being only 25 minutes ride from the business center of the city. It is thoroughly equipped and beautifully furnished. Every electric current useful in the treatment of the sick is used, and ideal Turkish, Russian, and Medicated Baths are given. In conditions where the kidneys and liver are affected, and in cases of rheumatism, our Hot Air treatment has been remarkably successful. For full information address
