

sought for politically, and they are very likely to permanently recruit Ohio's democratic ranks.

In Philadelphia it was a protest against boss rule and the ruthless robberies of utility corporations. The democratic party of the city supported what was called the city ticket, and to that party, as the organized basis of the struggle for reform, the thousands of independent republican voters rallied and overcame the common enemy.

The election of Jerome is another stinging protest against boss rule and machine corruption. A democrat, he demonstrated what honest and fearless work of a true democrat can do for the people, and because he did Tammany repudiated him. Without a party back of him, with every ballot cast for him a scratched ballot, his election over his Tammany opponent is a prodigious victory, pregnant with good omens for the future.

At the present time it is impossible from the state of the returns to say whether Hearst or McClellan is elected. The latter seems to have a slight lead, but should he be declared elected Hearst makes it known that he will contest it, and thus fight the people's battle to the end.

The vote for Hearst is a much more wonderful outcome than the election of Jerome, for Jerome was made the nominee of the republican party, though his name could not be put on the official ballot, while Hearst had no party indorsement. Indeed, it is known, and the state of Ivins' vote shows it, that the republican bosses gave it out that to vote for McClellan would do the republican organization a service, and tens of thousands of machine republicans acted upon the hint. William R. Hearst stands today shoulder to shoulder with William J. Bryan in the hearts of the patriotic people of the country. He emerges from the mountain of slander and filth his enemies sought to pile upon him a grander man and a more resplendent character. From today he is one of the few great men of the country. His heart beats in unison with those of the lowly. He is Vengeance against public crimes of every kind personified.

The lesson the election teaches is that democracy must purify itself. It can no longer rest under the suspicion of temporizing with utility corporations, the greed of trusts or the dishonesty and treachery of bosses. The democratic party is either the refuge of the people or it is the tool of corporations. If it shows itself worthy of the people's confidence it will come triumphantly into power; if it is the tool of corporations and the plaything of the bosses it will be defeated, as it should be—Denver News.

"DO BABIES PAY?"

("Do Babies Pay?" is the subject discussed by some writers of the day.)

Each night when I go home from work,
Tired with toil of the day,
A little tot is waiting for me
To drive the cares away.
And then she toddles down the walk
And meets me at the gate,
And I forget I'm tired out
When she begins to prate:

"Oh, papa, I'm so glad you come—
I fink you're awful nice—
Say, papa, how much did I tost,
Anr am I worf de price?"

She tells me what a "splendid time"
She's had "wif dolls and toys"—
A perfect little chatterbox,
Chock full of life and joys.
And every evening she and I,
When supper time is o'er,
Can hardly wait until we've had
A romp upon the floor.

Then, as we tuck her in her bed,
She says, "Tome tiss me twice—
And, papa, how much did I tost,
And am I worf de price?"
