

TO MAKE 1906 THE BANNER YEAR FOR THE COMMONER

The effort to make 1906 a banner year so far as concerns the increase of The Commoner's circulation is to have, evidently, the cordial co-operation of Commoner readers. The congressional campaign will soon be at hand, and for this reason it is particularly important that The Commoner's sphere of influence be enlarged through a material increase in its circulation. Every mail brings to this office substantial assurances that The Commoner's efforts are appreciated by those who have been its regular readers, and this week the special subscription offer makes a particularly good showing.

The marked interest manifested by many Commoner readers is shown by the following extracts from letters received at The Commoner office:

G. W. Stephenson, a merchant of Cookeville, Tenn., writes: "Enclosed find $15.60 to pay for 26 subscriptions, all new except my own. I have taken every paper Mr. Bryan ever issued. I came from Ingram, Texas, to this place, though I'm a native of this state. Today I closed my store and secured these subscriptions in two or three hours' work, not charging one cent commission to any. These subscribers are representative democrats—county officers from sheriff down (lawyers, merchants, preachers, etc.) I did this work for the love I have for Mr. Bryan and the great, good, patriotic principles for which he stands."

John Sullivan, an attorney of Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I take pleasure in enclosing you list of 33 subscribers for your estimable publication. Epitomizing, as it does, from week to week, advanced thought, on all questions, of the day, it is an encyclopedia of discussion of current problems affecting mankind's welfare, of inestimable value, to every reader. However else, Mr. Bryan will hold a place in history, as having caused his fellow men, to think more, discuss more, and delve deeper, into all problems of sociological nature, into all problems affecting man's welfare, than any of his era, or of modern times."
