Address all THE COMMONER Lincoln, Nebraska Orders to campaign we will capture the fort. D. M. Monroe, Everett, Wash.—Why don't they vote for us? Because the moral scent is keener than the intellectual, a political party branded with the name democrat—suggestive of slavery, whiskey, Tammany hall and a jackass, decides the doubting voter, who forgetting the platform remembers the name—scent the odor and avoids it. What's in a name? A bad odor. Let us leave the name to those who love the odor—to the element that betrays us in the halls of congress admitting their interests are best served by republican success. We might, under a new name, with an issue clear and deep enough to be worth fighting for, attract to our assistance the respect and support of a large body of republican voters, progressive enough to see the fallacy of protection, but with an inborn aversion towards that party whose name is suggestive to them of a few things other than reform. Let us forget it!

L. K. Moss, Warrior, Ala.—I have read your letter to President Taft in regard to another constitutional amendment. It is a good suggestion. Why not also ask him to favor an amendment that will give the states the right to protect their people from the liquor dealers in other states? If you would put yourself at the head of a movement to accomplish this it would be a success, and you would be the most popular and best loved man in America.

John M. O'Brien, Muscatine, Iowa.—Mr. W. S. Manning, correspondent for the New York Times, said: "Some democrats are prone to act in the senate in apparent conflict, but in real harmony with Senator Aldrich." When I look through the list of those senators who voted a duty on lumber and iron I find many there who I thought were democrats, but they are in harmony with Senator Aldrich and the trusts. I believe it was Thomas Jefferson who said that there was more virtue in the people than would ever be found in the representatives of the people. A few men to act as traitors are to be expected, but this large list pains me. I desire to say, if you please, unless the democrats elect senators and representatives that will give expression to the will of the people, representative government is lost.

Stephen Jewell, Grant's Pass, Ore.—As to the future, we were right in 1896, 1900 and in 1908, and for my part, I am not willing to surrender one principle for which the true democracy of this nation is contending. We are right, and the intelligence of the world knows it, and the time is coming when right will prevail. I began fighting the battles of American democracy forty years ago, and expect to continue forty years longer if permitted to live that long.

W. C. Williams, Denver, Colo.—The one thing to do is to keep on fighting for our principles. This is a war, not a battle, and Bryan is young enough to make it possible and probable that he will live to lead us to victory.

Pat E. McGill, Morganfield, Ky.—In your letters from the people I notice J. M. Foy, writing from Pulaski, Fla., says that no party in which the south is a dominating factor should be intrusted with the national government. I fear that the gentleman is looking through a glass darkly. I would like to know why he says so. In my opinion the cause of the defeat last year was the cowardice of the press. The reason being that in every county seat there is a clique of bankers and other beneficiaries of special privilege which ought to be called legalized theft, calling themselves democrats, that bolted when the party got to be democratic and it was to keep the good will of this element that the papers put their cowardice on exhibition. I have watched the congress for over thirty years, and I have never seen the republican party pass one measure that did not put the dollar above the man and if any republican will point me to one decision of a republican court or official that did not decide for money against human rights I will do the most contemptible thing a Kentucky gentleman ever did. I will vote the republican ticket. It is impossible for one man to admire another any more than I do Mr. Bryan. I have watched him ever since he went to congress and he has been on the right side of every question from that time to this and as he so beautifully says: "We may not achieve success, but we can do more. We can deserve it."

Dr. S. H. Murphy, Colony, Kan.—I think our defeat was due to lack of daily newspapers to advocate the cause of the people. The people must be educated through the press. The opposition seems to have a large Subscribers' Advertising Dept.

A great many of our subscribers have been quick to realize the handsome profit they can make by advertising in our Little Advertisement Department. We started this department of little advertisements expressly for our subscribers, so they could advertise at the very low price of 6 cents per word, their farms, homes, lands, surplus live stock, poultry, eggs, bees, birds, pet stock, seeds, plants, nursery stock, produce, implements they had outgrown but which were still useful, etc. It didn't take our big army of subscribers long to find out that it pays to advertise in The Commoner's Subscribers Advertising Department. The rate of six cents per word is relatively much smaller than the cent a word rate charged by papers of 1,000 circulation. The Commoner has a guaranteed circulation of 145,000, so the actual cost to you is about 1 cent per word for 24,000 circulation. Some of our subscribers now, not only advertise their miscellaneous wants, but have built up a regular mail order business from these small advertisements, and raise stock, etc., on purpose for their customers secured by advertising. A good many sell goods and articles of their own make, or act as agents for manufacturers.

You can make money and build up a nice little business of your own by using this department to place your proposition before The Commoner's big army of readers. If you have anything to buy or sell it will pay you to use this department at all times. Send us a trial order. Write just as you'd talk. Never mind the grammar. Count name, postoffice, and numbers as one word each. Multiply by 6 cents per word, and send your ad, and money order direct to The Commoner, Lincoln, Neb.
