A New York dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald says: "Charles W. Morse, who is said to have acquired $7,500,000 since he was released on bail from the Tombs prison June 17, was sentenced November 6 of last year to fifteen years penal servitude in a federal prison for violation of the United States banking laws while vice president of the National Bank of North America in this city. He is due to appear in the United States circuit court of appeals October 11, when his case comes up on appeal, and must surrender to Marshal Henkel by midnight of October 9 so that he may be confined in the Tombs for one day previous to his appearance in court. He is said in the three and a half months of freedom to have cancelled all his indebtedness except $500,000. In 1907 the wealth of Morse, who was known as a 'wizard of finance,' was estimated at $18,000,000."

The Associated Press carries this dispatch from Guthrie, Okla.: "If a resident of Oklahoma wishes to receive a shipment of liquor and dispose of the same in violation of the state's prohibition law he must get to the incoming train ahead of the police if he expects to obtain possession of the consignment before it is confiscated. This is the effect of a decision of the state supreme court today in which all the justices concurred and which reversed a finding of the lower civil courts. These courts and the Oklahoma criminal court of appeals have held that the interstate commerce laws protected a shipment of liquor while it was on the premises of the railroad and until actually delivered to the consignee. The decision today was in the case of B. W. Tucker, who took advantage of the usual court finding

A Chicago dispatch carried by the Associated Press says: "John R. Walsh, convicted of misapplication of the funds of the Chicago National bank, must serve the sentence of five years' imprisonment imposed upon him by the trial jury, save in the event of the supreme court upsetting the affirmation of the verdict of guilty handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals here today. Counsel for Mr. Walsh in their appeal laid stress on what they alleged was a lack of criminal intent on the part of the defendant. In the very lengthy brief which they filed much law was quoted to show that the convicted banker, newspaper publisher and railroad owner used the funds of the bank in what he considered a legitimate manner. The opinion of the court of appeals, written by Judge Humphreys and handed down by Judge Grosscup, is brief and confined almost wholly to the question of criminal intent."

The Secret Of A Beautiful Complexion

Constitutional Treatment Will Accomplish More in a Week Than Local Applications in Six Months

Contrary to general opinion the acquiring and maintaining of a perfectly clear and faultless complexion does not depend upon the application of local treatment. There are many persons who spend small fortunes visiting "beauty specialists" and having their faces massaged with perfumed, pink-colored cold creams, or with electrical vibrations, hoping by these methods to get rid of wrinkles and various skin blemishes.

Others spend much of their time steaming their cheeks with superheated vapor, which promotes a rapid and heavy perspiration, and for the time being relieves the pores of any foreign matter which may be clogging them. But the great trouble with such treatments is that they achieve no permanent benefit, and whatever good they may accomplish is only momentary.

The reason is obvious. The trouble is constitutional instead of being local, and for that reason, general, rather than topical treatment, is naturally required. No one would think of trying to cleanse the sewerage system of a city by merely cleaning the external openings of a few of the sewers, and allowing the rest of the aqueduct to remain untouched. The whole system needs to be flushed and purified.

The pores may be aptly termed the sewerage system of the body, which throws off one-fifth of its impurities through them; and if, for any reason, these little pores become stopped up, or the other eliminating organs which dispose of the remaining four-fifths of the waste material, partially fail in their work of elimination, then the inevitable pimples, blackheads, liver spots, etc., appear upon the face, thereby serving notice to the owner of that face that something is wrong within; something is interfering with the work of destroying and throwing off the effete matter from the blood, which has consequently become loaded with impurities.

The foolish practice of attempting to cure a blotchy, or otherwise faulty complexion, by the use of local means, should be given up at once, and a more rational treatment substituted—that of purifying the blood and cleansing the body's sewerage system, by using STUART'S CALCIUM WAFERS.

Many persons who have been trying to gain a perfect complexion and to rid themselves of pimples and other facial blemishes, through local means, have given up this folly, and by the regular use of Stuart's Calcium Wafers—the great blood-and-skin remedy—have not only succeeded in purifying their blood, getting rid of pimples, etc., but have also established a healthy circulation through the skin, which had the effect of removing wrinkles.
