So we have decided to give you the benefit.

The rubbing is so slight you would hardly notice it. In fact our shipping manager didn't notice it till a very expert critic pointed it out. Many of the sets of course are not rubbed at all, but they all go right out with this big lot at the sacrifice price. See the books for yourself. Try to detect the rubbing—you may get a set which is not rubbed at all—but they all go. If you don't want the work after examination send it back at our expense. THE STANDARD HISTORY

The Library of Universal History has held its unrivaled position in the high esteem of scholars all these years—by students and writers it is equally prized—for the home it is the one history that meets all exacting requirements.

The home should contain the best history. It is to the credit of the American people that they want the standard history today and insist on having The Library of Universal History in their homes as well as in the great libraries, schools and colleges.

The history is so complete, so comprehensive, so thorough in its accuracy of detail—the scholar who turns to its pages is delighted—the student who pores over it is instructed—the ordinary reader of its vivid, fascinating chapters is entertained—the child is at once delighted and its young mind opened to an early understanding of the meaning of the world's great events by the marvelous pictures—there are 700 full page historical pictures taken from the great paintings of the world.

Every great event in the annals of the world is told in the 5,000 pages of this gigantic work. Every fascinating chapter of all history is found in these comprehensive volumes. Here you find the history of all peoples, all nations, all countries—the true story of every age and time and clime is set down with the unerring fidelity of the authoritative historians.

The great personages of history, men and women stand out before you as you read these eternal pages of everlasting history—you see them reanimated in the white glare of their undying fame or in the garish glow of their notoriety before the curtain of oblivion falls. You see the Scythian clansmen coming down from their mystic far land with the torch of learning and the sword of justice; you see the majestic walls of Babylon embowered—you hear the murmur of the mighty marts of Nineveh; you hear the groaning of the subject-men as they toil at the Pyramids of Egypt; you see the marble temples of Paganism rise in the classic beauty of ancient Greece—you hear the clash of battle and you witness the carnage of war when Xerxes leads 5,000,000 men to disastrous conflict; when Alexander desolates the Orient; when Caesar sweeps through Gaul; when Napoleon crushes at Austerlitz and is crushed at Waterloo.

And the triumphs of peace! The discovery of the new worlds; the building of nations and the crumbling of empires. The scattering of the tribes; the peopling of all lands; the forming of new races, new languages, new religions. And over all and through all the progress of the world; the development of industry through the arts and sciences by means of the potent, resistless, all conquering influence of Education.

Every page of the Library of Universal History is so entertaining to read and so easy to remember.

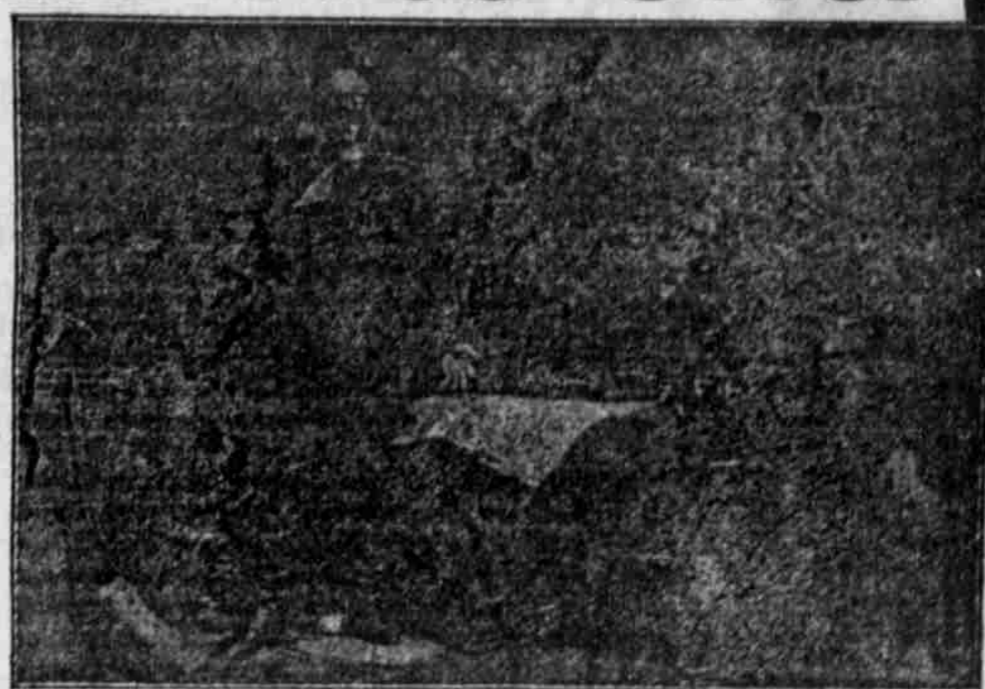

It is the history you want for your home—it is now in 250,000 homes—it is the history you want—the history you have wanted so long—it is the history you want now. On this great special limited offer we will ship it to you free—absolutely free to you.
