THE HERO WHO COUNTS

He fights the bloodless battles of his day
Without the spending of a cent to flay
The motley foe; no carnage, bloodshed, strife;
No widows' tears, no orphans' wail, no life
Lost in the fury of the ruddy reign
Of tragic warfare where the brave are slain
To build some fancied destiny of power
A little higher for its little hour.

He goes on fighting, strong to face defeat
And rise again, steel-tempered but child-sweet,
And fired in soul and spirit with his cause,
Through day and night undaunted at applause
To win him wayward from his purpose high,
Nor by denunciation's breath, whereby
His wily foemen seek to turn him back
From the brave purpose of his lofty track.

He fights the fight of principle, sometimes
Lonely upon the peaks where round him chimes
The distant music of the rolling spheres,
Unheard except by his sharp listening ears,
And other times with poltroons in his train
Who join his cause in hope of some self-gain,
Until he turns upon them in his path
The scathing scorn and besom of his wrath.

A silent battle his, and oft in doubt;
But while life lasts and good red blood holds out,

He grasps the golden banner as in youth
And marches onward in the cause of truth;
The bloodless hero, the true knight of days
When first the land to one conviction sways
And then another—still his peak he mounts,
The bloodless hero, and the one who counts.

For it is an heroic fight, indeed,
That that man fights that makes no other bleed
Except his own heart, and can keep control
Of temper, tact, and his immortal soul,
While enemies unscrupulous pursue
The dreams he dreams, the deeds he dares to do,
And snarl and snap to check him as he draws
Each year a little nearer to his Cause! —Baltimore Sun.

THE RURAL CHURCH PROBLEM

not man for the Sabbath. In other words, an institution like the Sabbath or like a church or like a pastorate is not for itself, but for what it will do for humanity.

When a man or a church is doing the real things for a community, the community will rise to meet this helpfulness. If the man or the institution is not doing these things he or it will have to go. As was said forcibly in the Book of Revelations to the useless institution: "I will spew thee out of my mouth."

This is not a threat, it is a law. It is the way things work. It is natural and right.

The thing for pastors and people to do, then, is to broaden out to see the real problems. Rules may help, but the right spirit is better than rules. The way will always open before it.—Miami (Fla.) Herald.

A Remarkable New Book by Woodrow Wilson

THE NEW FREEDOM

The publication on Monday, February 17, of a book by Woodrow Wilson, is the most important political event of the spring. It is one of the most striking events of the political history of the nation. Never before had a president-elect, on the eve of his inauguration, addressed to the country a profession of faith and a statement of his intentions.

Speaking of this remarkable book, the Mobile (Ala.) Item says: "The work is one of the most remarkable ever put in the field, both by reason of the bitterness of its arraignment of the present financial system and by its exploitation of a future presidential policy. No other chief executive of the United States since the declaration of independence has performed the feat of Mr. Wilson on the eve of taking office. He not only attacks the trusts and monopolies of the country, but makes it clear that he will do all in his power to legitimately restore trade competition and individual opportunity and to disentangle community centralization which, he says, has become dangerously co-ordinated."
