

President McKinley said: "I am familiar with Ridpath's History of the World, and cordially commend it to the scholar as well as to the people generally."

Professor Angell, Michigan University, said: "I have examined Ridpath's History of the World. As a popular history of the world it may well be commended to the public."

President Cleveland said: "I unhesitatingly recommend Ridpath's History of the World as a work of great merit and believe that it should have a prominent place in every library."

Bishop Vincent said: "Ridpath's History is in clear and agreeable style, comprehensive in treatment, readable type and admirable illustrations."

THE PRESENT EUROPEAN WAR is the greatest tragedy in human history. The great monarchies of Europe, as illustrated here-with by the crowned eagles, are engaged in an awful conflict of destruction. The Goddess of Liberty may well try to protect the fallen soldiers, with the flags of their nations trailing in the dust. If you would care to know the underlying causes which have led up to this conflict, the great racial antipathies, the commercial rivalries, the sting of past defeats, the vaulting ambitions for world empire, then embrace this opportunity to place in your home the world-famed publication,

Ridpath's History of the World

All the underlying causes of the present conflict—Austria's memory of defeat by Napoleon on a hundred battlefields, France's defeat by Germany under the leadership of the Iron Chancellor Bismark, Russia's loss of the Dardenelles, closing her outlet to the sea, England's opposition to the growing military and naval power of Germany,—all these and hundreds of other underlying causes may be clearly discerned and understood by reading this great History. Dr. Ridpath's History is endorsed by Presidents of the United States, practically all university and college presidents, and by a quarter of a million Americans who own and love it.

The Progress of the Ages

A knowledge of history is the most wholesome influence in the civilized life of man. It makes men wiser and better. It makes them greater. It gives them nobility of character and temperance of life and manner, an aspect of dignity and ease; a temper of self possession and repose. History is the one great book out of which mankind may learn the story of the past, with its profound lessons and warnings; the story of the present with its agitations and its doubts; and the prophecy of the future, with its still grander promises and hopes. And the one history which has been endorsed by the scholarship of the world and by more than 200,000 purchasers as the best ever written is Ridpath's History of the World.

Six Thousand Years of History

Here you read of the Rise and Fall of Nations, the splendor that was Greece and the glory that was Rome. You discern the causes which have led to the overthrow of mighty monarchies and kingdoms, peoples and races, and the thoughtful mind can not fail to discern through it all the steady and powerful march toward Republican and free institutions. The birthright of man is Freedom, and in this solemn hour the closing words of Dr. Ridpath's History of the World fall upon us almost like a benediction. They are as follows: "May the day soon dawn when every land from orient to occident, from pole to pole, from mountain to shore, and from shore to the farthest island of the sounding sea show only the glad sunshine of Freedom in its breast. May the day soon come when the people of all climes arising at last from the heavy slumbers and barbarous dreams which have so long haunted the benighted minds of man shall join in glad acclaim to share in the 'Golden era of Humanity' and the 'Universal Monarchy of Man.'"
