Cloudy skies

sort of put a damper on a good many plans for this week-end. Picnics being cancelled right and left caused many changes, such as for the Sigma Nu's, who went out to the Turnpike en masse instead. Speaking of the Sigma Nu's, they're going to church this morning too, which makes about the third time this year they've made the group effort all together.

Bright spots

in the week-end, however, were the initiations, and the Sigma Kappas, the Sammies, the ATO's and the Phi Mu's made approximately 50 kiddies very happy. Sigma Kappa's had a tea, the Sammies had a midnight banquet, the ATO's were entertained at their banquet at the University club, and the Phi Mu's initiated their girls at the district convention here.

Better received than many bands, Bob Strong really made a hit Friday night. Surprise of the evening's fun was the unscheduled and free-gratis appearance of Lynn Borden, popular radio star, who wowed the coliseum with his off-the-record comments. Evidently he had been coached well by the Dels beforehand, particularly as regards the policy of Dean Thompson. So be prepared for a flood of "You Too's?" in the campus lingo.

New member of this column's sleuthing staff is Mr. Tilche of the French department. It seems that this dynamic little detective is contemplating blackmailing Theta Marion Jones and Beta alum Houghton Furr, particularly since a romantic interlude in U Hall one day not long ago.

To re-mention

the 'N' club dance, the athletes deserve to be complimented for their thoughtfulness in providing their dates with the identifying red and white carnations, centered with an 'N' in contrasting color.

Debate teams enter third round I-M tournament

Third round of the intramural debate tournament, to be held Tuesday night at 7, pits undefeated Delta Upsilon and Zeta Beta Tau against Delta Theta Phi and Phi Delta Theta, respectively. Once beaten Sigma Alpha Mu tackles Alpha Tau Omega, which boasts one victory as against one loss.

Delta Theta Phi likewise has a split record, while Phi Delta Theta lost once, by forfeit. Delta Tau Delta has already dropped out, having lost to Alpha Tau Omega and forfeited to Delta Theta Phi, following a misunderstanding as to a postponement of the debate.

At least one team will be eliminated Tuesday night, as Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Alpha Mu debate. If the two leaders both win, the battle will be narrowed to only three survivors.

Debates will be held in the chap-
