

What they're wearing

By June Jamieson

Fashion flash!

We saw "fashion-plate" Jim Kirkendall dressed in picnic clothes the other day, and he hasn't changed a bit. Maybe he's given that well-dressed tag of his to Sig Nu brother Bob Krause who looks so smooth in one of those summer blue sport jackets and light beige, shadow-plaid slacks. For our feminine style note we give you Alpha Phi Dottie Askey. Her red, white, and blue shirt-waist dress has a bolero jacket with three-quarter sleeves—the kind of thing that's good for dancing under the stars.

According to

Cornhusker editor Bob Aden, the Betas are advocating T-shirts and cords, and nothing but picnics for entertainment, but Bob wants to stress the fact that the coming colors are blue and yellow—that's what the annual is wearing this year. Theta Ruthie Mac Millan likes white for her summer formal wear, however, and accents it with a touch of blue quilting at the pockets and on the jacket of her full-skirted pique.

Norma Westfall is pretty happy about her new broomstick skirt—one of those handy little deals that wrap around a stick and save you a session at the ironing board these hot days. The Phi Deltas want it known that Jack Lee has a new brown hat for summer—finally something to replace that battered green job.

The ZBT sophomores aren't too well-dressed these days after that sneak night cost them a few cleaning and repair bills on the old wardrobe, but that doesn't stop Joe Kirshenbaum from shining in a camel's hair sport jacket with flap pockets and all the trimmings. Alpha Chi Nancy Mauck will keep cool in a pool this summer with a two piece yellow sharkskin swim suit.

Gray covert

suits are still the favorite for style and tailoring. You'll be seeing AgR Leo Cooksley and DU Bob Wherry wearing theirs often. Phi Gam Dick Miller sticks to gray but varies it in gabardine for his spring suit. And then take particular notice of that hat Rube Jensen, ATO, is wearing around. It's one of these coconut-colored straws with a bright band.

Kappa Phyd Hoffman trims her soft blue-gray and white striped

jacket with gold anchors on the white pearl buttons in the feature of Tri Delt Jean Burr's blue silk crepe shirtwaist date dress. DU Avery Forke combines blue and brown in one of those soft worsted to make a good-looking job of tailoring. Kappa Kate Coe goes gay with a bright yellow-gold and white cotton paly and swim suit with gathers at the waist. This preview of summer fashions promises a cool and comfortable play-time.

countries' leaders, who, rather than unifying their people at home both economically and socially, as we should be doing, as well as building up their own national defenses, made antagonistic remarks and gestures toward Germany which invited attack.

"In some respects, I feel that we should have gone a long way down that road ourselves, but I believe we may save ourselves if we settle down to a national defense program, maintain as neutral an attitude as possible, give Britain aid if she can transport it and keep our men away from Hitler's guns.

The letter continued: "Don't misunderstand me; I believe that this country should defend to the last man. I am 100 percent for developing our national defense in every way possible, but I cannot see that jumping in on the side of
