The Sports Mill
By Bob Miller

Sports Desk.
Dear Sports Fan:

It doesn't seem too hard to write a letter of introduction, but when you try putting the proper words in the proper places . . . well, take it from us, it is . . . The one and only purpose of this little missile is to let you (all seven thousand of you that are clamoring to read this) know who will be editing the sports copy for the coming year . . . That's where we come in . . .

With introductions concluded, we would like to mention in a small way the debt we owe Jim Evinger who used this column last year for the help he has given in getting us started along the road of sports . . . Incidentally, Jim did his job in bang-up style last year to hang up a good record . . .

As this is merely a get-acquainted column and not one in which precious (?) information is to be divulged, we have decided to formulate some type of an editorial policy . . . Our primary concern will be a wider and more comprehensive coverage of all phases of the Nebraska sports program . . . In this way we hope to get the average sports fan better acquainted with sports that he scarcely knew existed . . . If in our ramblings we can accomplish this in some small part we will be content . . .

With so many things happening in the last few weeks including the draft, defense jobs, etc., to drain some of the athletic manhood from Nebraska, it is our fervent hope that this university will maintain its leadership of the athletic parade in the midwest . . . In every sport from football to fencing inroads on material have been made but as long as a group of fellows with a desire to compete and a coach with a desire to see them compete can team together . . . Then opponents look out . . .

Nebraska's athletics now going into the fifty-second year have been a symbol of clean play, fairness and skill . . . During this athletic year there will be many sophomores performing for the Scarlet and Cream for the first time . . . May they remember the tradition which has preceded them and may they devote their energies to place Nebraska still higher in the realm of sports . . .

With this last dissertation off our minds we can end this inaugural column and pick up tomorrow . . . So, as some one said, "Thanks for listening." . . . BOB MILLER, Sports Editor.

An addition to the Dartmouth college library is one of the finest collections of Herman Melville first editions, presented by George Matthew Adams, New York author and book collector.

Roy Lyman tutors Husker linemen

With an All-American record behind him and with a professional players fame to help him along, Roy "Link" Lyman came to Nebraska four years ago to assume the duties of head line coach.

A Nebraska product all the way through, "Link" achieved fame on the Husker teams of 1918, '19 and '21 as an All-American tackle. He was placed on all of the major All-American teams and was accorded western honors in 1921.

In 1922 Lyman went to the Canton Bulldogs where he remained for three seasons. He joined ranks with the Chicago Bears in 1926 and remained on the team until hanging up his suit in 1934. While with the Bears, Lyman was one of the outstanding tackles of nearly a decade.

The experience gained as a tackle has qualified him for the big job of producing a good line, a Husker tradition. Last spring
