Rabin fined

Tel Aviv, Israel—Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is paying a $1,500 fine for keeping illegal bank accounts in the United States and will not go on trial with his wife after all. Rabin announced last Thursday that he was resigning as leader of the ruling Labor party and would step aside as prime minister after it became known that he and his wife, Leah, maintained two bank accounts in Washington, D.C., totaling up to $21,000 in violation of currency regulations. Mrs. Rabin, who managed the accounts, is expected to go on trial in a few days. She faces a maximum sentence of three years in jail and a fine of three times the total amount put in the accounts, or about $63,000.

Sentence commuted

Washington—President Carter has commuted the 20-year prison sentence of Watergate burglary chieftan G. Gordon Liddy to eight years and Liddy will be eligible for parole in July, his lawyer said Tuesday. Peter L. Maroulis, Liddy's lawyer, said he was told of the commutation by Robert Lipshutz, the President's counsel. By July, Liddy will have served 50 months in jail, including 18 months for refusing to testify under immunity before a grand jury.

Joint ownership

Washington—The Federal Communications Commission has until April 22 to put into effect court-ordered rules to break up joint single-city ownerships of newspapers and broadcast stations. The U.S. Court of Appeals granted the FCC additional time last week after the agency said the new rules should not be put into effect until the Supreme Court has time to review the case.

Drought aid

Washington—A package of drought aid to help distressed farmers, including emergency loans to cover crop losses, was announced Tuesday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland. The emergency loans are available to qualified farmers and ranchers, including fish farmers, in all countries designated for emergency drought relief.

Nebraska deaths

Two farm workers died in separate farm accidents in northeast Nebraska Monday. They were identified as Leo Jareske, 49 of rural Ewing, and Tony O. Webb, 66, of rural West Point. Jaresky, a hand working in the calving yard of the Don Manlein Ranch, died after his horse spooked and his foot became entangled in a stirrup as he either mounted or dismounted, according to Antelope County Atty. Jim McNally. Webb was working on the Ray and Lawrence Ewing farm three miles northeast of West Point when he was run over and crushed by the tractor he was driving, a family member said.
