

Ford says a new communist specter threatens Western European nations

Fulton, Mo.—Gerald Ford said Saturday a new specter of Communist control threatens Western Europe.

The former president also said the United States must not be ambiguous in its opposition to communism.

He did not directly mention President Carter's human rights campaign but said: "More important than the conditions of human rights in those dictatorships which have abolished them is the preservation of those rights in those nations that still have them.

"From the shores of the Adriatic to those of the Atlantic, a new spectre of Communist control hovers over the countries of Western Europe," Ford said.

He said some people believe that Communists in Europe "are almost the equivalent of social democrats," and he called that a myth.

Arms limits

Washington—Decrying the United States as the world's No. 1 arms peddler, President Carter says he will make proposals to the Soviet Union "before long" to limit sales of conventional weapons, which he has said is a $20 billion a year business.

Last May, the president announced a unilateral policy of restraining U.S. sales of conventional arms, citing "the threat to world peace embodied in this spiraling arms traffic" He said arms sales should be approved only to protect the security of this country and that of its allies.

Carter's statements came during an interview with a group of newspaper columnists.

Crude oil tax

Washington—The Senate refused Saturday to go on record as opposed to any energy bill that includes a tax on crude oil, the key elements of President Carter's energy program.

By a 47 to 30 vote, the Senate rejected a Republican effort to deny a conference committee the authority to negotiate an energy bill if it included such a tax.

That vote did not represent endorsement of the tax. But it improved chances that Congress will pass an energy tax bill this year, and that it will include a crude oil tax.

GO BIG RED

EARN OVER $600 A MONTH FOR THE REST OF YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you are interested in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the NUPOC-Collegiate Program (NUPOC is short for Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate), and if you qualify it can pay you as much as $611 a month for the remainder of your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you will receive an additional year of advanced technical education, education that would cost thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. Only one of every six applicants will be selected, and there are fewer than 300 openings. But those who make it find themselves in one of the most elite engineering training programs anywhere. With unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, plus travel, medical benefits and education opportunities.

For more details on this program, ask your placement officer when a Navy representative will be on campus, or call the Officer Program Office listed below; or send your résumé to Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college; it can lead to an exciting opportunity.
