

Food fund transfer discussed

The Nebraska and East Unions and the housing director are discussing how much money to transfer between their offices for East Union food service.

Food service director Douglas Rix said budgeting processes allow for transfers of funds among the City Campus food services and between them and the East Union, where students in Burr-Fedde residence halls are fed.

For example, he said if "transfers" (students from one residence hall who take their meals at another) from Harper Hall eat at Selleck Quadrangle, money would shift between the food services to match the shifting costs.

Housing director Doug Zatechka said he and Al Bennett, union director should arrive at a definite figure within a month. He said since housing does not operate a food service on East Campus, the East Union needs funds to provide that service to Burr-Fedde students and those from city campus who wish to eat there.

Zatechka said he and Bennett will try to reach a decision about "what's fair equitable between the unions and the office of housing."

Conference is planned

The Lincoln-Lancaster Commission on the Status of Women is sponsoring a health conference to inform women about health care, according to Chris Funk, commission director.

The conference, "Your Doctor, Your Health and You," will be Nov. 5 at the First Presbyterian Church, 17th and F Streets.

Although it is designed for women 12 years old and up, the conference also is open to younger girls and men, Funk said.

Participants may attend three of 11 small group discussions concerning health problems at different stages of life, abortion, preventative health, mental health and other health issues, she said.

The $2 cost of attending the conference will pay for building rental, child care and coffee, Funk said.

The fee can be waived for low-income participants, she said.

Advance registration is requested and is due Tuesday, she said.

Registration blanks are at the Old Federal Building, Room 228, the YWCA, Planned Parenthood, Family Services, the UNL Women's Resource Center and hospital personnel offices.
