

Charge Report Of Commission Hurt U.S. Trade

Deliberate Circulation of Adverse Findings Blamed by Packers for Action
Of British.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Attention of members of congress was called today by the Institute of American Meat Packers to proposals submitted to the British parliament regarding the meat industry, and said to be designed to restrain American packers from further extending their world trade.

The institute in an open letter to senators and representatives transmitting a report to parliament by a subcommittee of the standing committee on trusts says this report was a "consequence of the deliberate circulation in foreign countries by the commission's report on its investigation of the 'big five' packers conducted by direction of President Wilson.

Reports Sent Abroad.
It is charged by the institute that the trade commission not only furnished copies of its report to representatives here of foreign governments, but also asked the diplomatic bureau of the State department to transmit reports direct to those governments.

The commission, it is charged, sent to the diplomatic bureau a form letter to be used in the transmitting the report, saying:
"There is enclosed a copy of the summary of the report of the federal trade commission on the meat industry which was recently released for publication by President Wilson and which may be of interest to your government."

Letter is Blamed.
"By this form letter," says this institute, "President Wilson was made to extend the invitation to foreign governments to take the 'fundamental action' which the commission said was necessary to prevent international control of meat products by the American packers."

The institute says that members of congress, after reading the British committee's report, which quotes from the trade commission report, "will appreciate the serious disaster which threatens the live stock industry of this country as a consequence of the deliberate circulation in foreign countries by the federal trade commission of its false and unjust charges against American packers."

British Quote report.
The British committee's report says "no complaint was made (at hearings held by it) of unfair trading by the American companies beyond severe cutting of prices for the purpose of developing trade or clearing surplus stocks," but it charges that "there is at least a tacit understanding between the American meat companies to respect each other's position, which secures to them all the economic advantages of an active combination."

The committee recommends that "it should be the declared policy of his majesty's government to prevent the percentage of the beef trade, which is at present in foreign hands, from increasing to the loss of producers at home and in the dominions and of British importing companies" and that expansion of foreign interests in the United Kingdom should be restrained by taxation and subsidizing refrigerated shipping companies.

State Takes Charge of Closed Tacoma Bank

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 17.—Gov. Lewis F. Hart announced today he had appointed Forbes Haskell, former Tacoma banker, deputy commissioner to liquidate the Scandinavian-American bank of Tacoma, which closed its doors Saturday night.

A meeting of the 12,000 depositors, who had $4,500,000 in the bank, was called. Ole Larson, president of the bank, promised in a newspaper advertisement to appear here after having been absent from his desk at the bank for more than a week.

The failure was due to "gross mismanagement," according to P. Claude Hay, state bank commissioner. He states that $1,200,000 of the funds of the bank had been invested in a new bank building now in process of construction. The bank had assets of more than $7,000,000, according to its last official report. Its capital was $1,000,000.
