What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The power of the greatest Navy in the world, our own two-ocean fleet, rests in large measure on its backbone—the Battleships of the Line. They displace approximately 35,000 tons and cost up to $70,000,000. We have something like a score of these huge ships in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Eight huge battleships are under construction and more are contemplated. To finance these modern giants of the sea it is necessary for every American everywhere to buy more and more War Bonds: We can do it if everybody does his share. Invest at least ten percent of your income every pay day to help your country go over its Bond Quota.

Grocer To Have Problems During Sugar Rationing

The inauguration of the sugar rationing program gives the corner grocer an important role on the civilian front, OPA officials pointed out today. He is entrusted with duties to perform that are possibly more important and extensive than any one else in the program, with the exception of the local rationing boards.

Every day the corner grocer will have to handle dozens of ration stamps. At the beginning, while the sugar rationing program is new, he'll probably have to do an awful lot of explaining. One of his best customers may plead for just a "couple of pounds more of sugar" with which to bake a cake for Junior's birthday. Somebody may show up without a war ration book and ask for sugar and promise to bring in the stamps later. The grocer will have to say, "Very sorry, but that's contrary to regulations."

Another customer may bring in some loose stamps and the grocer will have to explain very patiently that he can't accept stamps in such form. He must see them torn out of the war ration books in his presence. Another customer may come with a war ration book containing stamps whose period of validity has expired. The grocer will probably have to keep repeating over and over again that a stamp is valid only for the period for which it is issued and cannot be used afterwards.

Everyone wants to do his bit to help win the war, but every now and then somebody is sure to say, "Just one more pound. Nobody will know anything about it and it certainly won't hurt anything." That's where the grocer will have to stand his ground and very politely but firmly refuse. He knows that if he doesn't, the whole program may break down.

The consumer problem is the first one the grocer faces. Another one, which involves a lot of work, is pasting the stamps he gets over the counter on the cards distributed by OPA. He had to be very careful about these cards. He has to be careful not to lose them and to turn them in for sugar before their term of validity expires.

From now on the quantity of sugar which the grocer will be able to get from his wholesaler will depend upon the number of stamps and sugar purchase certificates he surrenders. He will have to keep records.

The grocer must also scan his local newspaper or watch for the bulletins posted at his local rationing board from time to time in order to know about new rationing periods. He must be on the lookout for changes in rationing regulations that may be announced by OPA.

A lot more than just the equal distribution of sugar depends upon the success of the sugar rationing program. The sugar program is expected to set a pattern for possible rationing of other foods. OPA doesn't have any particular desire to ration a lot of foods, but it is quite obvious that the country's tremendous war program may produce shortages in all kinds of commodities.

The corner grocer's patience with a lot of things may be a little strained before this war is over, but he'll probably be a pretty understanding fellow, anyway. He always has been. And he will know that in his own way, he is serving his country.

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.
