A WEEK OF THE WAR

The nine army corps areas were reorganized and renamed "Service Commands." The organization will further decentralize the operation of services of supply activity and eliminate duplicating facilities. War Secretary Stimson said 28,000 Jaundice cases developed among army personnel in the U. S. and abroad between January 1 and July 4, apparently due to the use of Yellow Fever vaccine. Sixty-two deaths resulted. "There has been a change in the form of Yellow Fever vaccine now used which the Surgeon General thinks will eliminate the whole trouble," Mr. Stimson said. Director Hobby of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps said 20 companies of 150 women each will be trained by the end of this year and 25,000 women will be trained by April, 1943.

Scrap Salvage Campaign

President Roosevelt reported the recent Scrap Rubber Collection Drive added 454,000 tons to the government's stockpile—exclusive of rubber in small piles still at service stations and junk dealers. WPB Chairman Nelson asked state and local governments to lend their trucks and workers to local salvage committees to help transport scrap material collections before winter sets in. To keep steel furnaces going at full capacity, more than 750,000 freight cars will be required to carry scrap iron and steel, most of which must be moved by trucks to rail points.

The WPB extended the Tin Can Salvage Program to 104 cities in addition to 36 metropolitan areas previously announced, because de-tinning plant capacity requirements have been increased from 250,000 to 400,000 tons. The Board said the government will requisition from junk dealers all useless automobiles—those that cannot be repaired on a practical basis—to maintain the present peak movement of automobile scrap to mills. On the basis of a questionnaire to 350 firms, the Board estimated 100 million pounds of essential chemicals could be realized in the next 18 months if manufacturers of war equipment began now to recover wasted spray paints.

Taxation And Profits

The House passed and sent to the Senate the War Revenue Bill, estimated to yield about $6,300 million, providing a 45 percent normal and surtax income rate on corporations and a 90 percent excess profits tax. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, however, said a tax program of less than $8,700 million of additional revenue would be inadequate. He recommended removal of these "Special Privileges;" tax exemption for state and municipal securities, exemption from taxation of 27 1/2 percent of income from oil wells and mines, and separate income tax returns by married couples.

The House Naval Affairs Committee, after investigating 40,000 contracts, said "95 percent of the war contractors are doing an honest and effective job and receiving only fair and reasonable profits," the average being 8 percent.

Jack Carroll was an O'Neill visitor from Atkinson Tuesday eve.

THE DAYS OF LONG AGO
tinued camping in the cupola until around 7 o'clock, when he came down and said a shower would soon be upon us, and so it was. As nice a shower as one would wish to see, but it appears to have been a general rain from the Black Hills to Omaha. Public opinion is greatly divided upon the question of whether or not Melbourne was responsible for the shower. In fact that has been the all-absorbing topic of conversation since the gentleman arrived in the city. The character of Tuesday's rain is a point that argues strongly in Melbourne's favor. It came with very little thunder and lightning and no wind, something that is very unusual in this country during the summer months. The clouds originally came lazily drifting from the northwest in broken masses, resembling whitecaps on a ruffled sea and had no indication whatever of rain. About 1 o'clock Tuesday they settled back again in the north and by 8 o'clock the entire sky was of a leaden hue and a gentle rain began falling which continued falling until the gauges measured a little over an inch. We got the rain, but the rainmaker got no money, as it came several hours after his contract expired.

In carrying on our business of banking, there is one consideration that dominates all others... Victory. The vital war role of America's banks—how they are helping to finance the war, assure adequate food supplies, accelerate war production and keep the economic machine on an even keel—will be discussed in this new series of advertisements entitled "Banks and the War." Our next message will be on a subject of intense personal interest to everyone—Defense Bonds. Watch for it.
