Bring Firm Prices Here Heavy Receipts Livestock

Supplies of livestock in both the cattle and hog divisions were fairly heavy here last Monday. The broad output and active demand kept prices firm on all classes and the day's receipts were readily absorbed. The general market undertone was healthy despite the growing restrictions, both actual and rumored which may or may not have an effect on the livestock industry. However, buyers seemed eager to purchase replacement cattle at fully steady prices with a week ago.

A very few extra choice light-weight steer calves climbed to a new top of $15.50, though the long end of supplies ranged from $13.50 to $14.80 on the better grades. Heifer calves scaling around 400 lbs. brought $13.25. Several loadlots of calves were sold.

Likewise, several straight loads of yearling steers were marketed and the price range on these was from $12.50 to $13.50 with a few lights reaching higher. Heifers made from $11.50 to $12.50.

Steers averaging 945 lbs. sold in loadlots at $13.15 to $13.75. Heavy heifers placed at $11.75 to $12.25.

The best beef cows reached $11.45 for an extreme top. Others in this class ranged from $9.75 to $11.00. Medium grades, not too well covered, made $8.50 to $9.50. Stock cows of good quality placed in the eights, with plainer kinds going at $7.00 to $8.00. Shelly cows sold in the sixes. Cow supplies were heavy. Bulls scaling 1600 lbs. sold at $10.00. Heavy supplies of hogs were poured into market here Monday. Heavyweight butchers topped at $12.80, with the long end moving within a $12.65 to $12.75 price range. Sows cashed from $12.60 to $12.70. Feeder pigs were here in large supply and topped at $15.10. Also, large numbers of little pigs sold by the head at good prices.

About 50 sheep completed the day's offering. The next auction will be on Monday, December 7.

SHIELDS

This community has been saddened by the death of one of our old pioneers, John Aifs, who passed away Friday, November 25th. It was sad, as it always is to be in the presence of death, and sadder to see the clasped hands and still face of that fine spirit. Yet as those words of the chant comes over the church, they make it easy to cancel out the sad and stern image that death brings, and to picture the soul emerging both from the trials of life and from darkness and loneliness of death into the peace and light and bright companionship of those who dwell with God. John enjoyed life and everyone who was associated with him found him a pleasant companion. He was possessed of the will to live, stood up and worked on until his physical strength was exhausted. Then it was that good common sense sustained him over the last several years of his life and the virtues he exercised. He has devoted his many years in Pleasantview township as a leader, among other things to the preservation of good will among his neighbors of all creeds, and it gives us an opportunity to take part in honoring one who so richly deserves honor.

In spite of the unfavorable weather, the number of people present who accompanied him on his last journey, exceeded expectations. Without doubt all were held spellbound at his sudden departure, and we will miss you, John, as a neighbor, a friend and a good citizen. Goodbye, EDW. O. EARLY.

INMAN ITEMS

Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Davis on Thanksgiving morning. Mrs. Davis was preparing dinner, when she heard a loud noise, and when she opened the door to the porch, discovered fire shooting in all directions from a pipe leading from the bottle gas stove. In a short time the whole house was ablaze. A bucket brigade and hose was used, and the fire truck from O'Neill came down. Most of the contents of the house from rooms downstairs, except from the kitchen, were saved, but the house and everything in their modern kitchen was lost. Mr. and Mrs. Davis had recently put in a water system and refinished and papered the entire house, also painted it on the outside. The loss is partly covered by insurance. They moved what was saved into their store building, and for the time being will live there. Mr. and Mrs. Davis desire to extend their sincere thanks to their neighbors and friends and the O'Neill Fire Department for the assistance rendered at the fire at their home last Thursday.
