Here's a BOOK that may NEVER be WRITTEN

It would have to be a big book—and it would be as exciting as a "best seller." There would be action on every page—with plenty of suspense that makes a good story. It would begin before the war, when, in spite of the depression, the railroads spent money to improve their service to peacetime America—buying new, more powerful locomotives—building new, more efficient rolling stock—laying new and heavier track—meeting spirited competition with traditional American enterprise. It would tell how every dollar spent for those improvements was a priceless advantage to this country, when suddenly America found itself plunged into world conflict. There would be chapters telling how the greatest transportation system in the world buckled down to its war job of moving armies and equipment fast and far, while continuing to handle essential civilian travel. And the way shippers have cooperated, and people generally have adjusted themselves to the inconveniences of war-time transportation—that would be a thrilling story in itself. Yes, the book may never be written. But we predict that the achievements it would cover will live in the grateful heart of America long after the Axis tyrants have crumbled into forgotten dust.

BANKS AND THE WAR

RATION BANKING - ANOTHER WAR-TIME SERVICE

The government has called upon all commercial banks to help in the enormous job of handling ration coupons within trade channels. The service is known as Ration Banking. Under the plan, only merchants are concerned. They open ration coupon accounts, make coupon deposits and draw coupon checks when ordering from their supply firms. Banks handle all the accounting and transfer details. The public is not affected directly, but indirectly you benefit through smooth and efficient handling of ration procedure.
