Educational Notes

I hope that all persons interested in education, in the business of teaching and in the hiring of teachers in Holt county, will read the following paragraphs carefully:

This is an emergency period for education. All educational trends and pursuits are handicapped. Therefore those interested—school board members, executives and active teachers are carrying a heavier responsibility than their usual quota. That responsibility is to "carry on" to the best of their ability for the boys and girls now in school. Those boys and girls are going to need every advantage that is possible to give them to meet the keen competition which is going to be their lot soon.

The State Superintendent is asking all regularly certified teachers to sign their contracts before August 1. If they do not have a school and desire to teach, they are requested to leave their names with their county superintendent as available teachers. Legally the county superintendent must determine that certified teachers are not available before the local Boards of Education can make application for temporary certificates.

On August 1, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction will on the basis of information obtained from the various county superintendents of the state, make an estimate of the needed temporary teachers and he will then assume that all certified teachers who wish to teach have either signed contracts or made it known to their county superintendents that they are available.

Accordingly, I am urging the qualified teachers in Holt county to sign their contracts by August 1st. And if they have not signed by then and have not already signified to me since July 15th that they are available for schools, I should like them to do so immediately. Then I can estimate more definitely the shortage in Holt county and so report to the State Superintendent.

Temporary certificates are obtainable only for persons who have held legal certificates. Persons who have not completed their initial certificate are not eligible to a temporary certificate but must complete their qualifications to become eligible for a legal contract. No contract entered into with a teacher who has not been qualified by the State Superintendent is legal. A Board of Education is personally responsible for money paid to a teacher who has not thus been qualified and the district loses its state apportionment.

Teachers who taught on temporary certificates last year are again eligible for temporary certificates this year. (A temporary certificate is issued for a particular district only for the one term). In order to renew their temporary certificate it will be necessary for them to earn nine college hours of credit or to take an examination at O'Neill on August 6. This examination is not given in each county. This one is for an area in this section of the state embracing several counties. A fee of $15 is charged for each candidate. The fee is submitted to the state office to defray expenses of the examination committees. Each candidate must take three written examinations in the morning and in the afternoon meet with a committee of three state appointees. The schedule of examination follows:

9:00-9:50: Elementary Course of Study; Educational Psychology.
10:00-10:50: Mathematics and Science; Business English and Current Affairs.
11:00-11:50: English and Social Science; Specific Subject.

The specific subject will be one in which the candidate will devote most of his time in the high school in which he is to teach.

Candidates who will teach in the upper grades of an approved rural high school will take Mathematics as the third subject.

Registration for these examinations are to be made with the County Superintendent of the county in which the candidates are to teach. The fees is to be collected, a number assigned and a report made to the state.

Registration should be made as soon as possible. Holt county applicants may register by mail, signifying district, also subjects in high school if you are to teach in high school. Send fee by money order or check to me at O'Neill. Register now for the examination which is to be held at O'Neill on Friday, August 6th, for the renewal of temporary certificates.

ELJA McCULLOUGH,
County Superintendent.
