"POOR HENRY" WALLACE It is not difficult these days to feel sorry for Henry Wallace. One can almost say with feeling "Poor Henry," about the ex-Iowa farm boy who went to the city and learned to talk a language that he doesn't seem to understand. First Henry took out after Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones with his new found words. And the repercussion blew Henry right out of his official duties and left him the Vice President presiding over the Senate. Then "Poor Henry" picked some more fancy words out of his recently acquired vocabulary. He attempted to label all who differ with the New Deal as American Fascists. And that opened up the opportunity for the press and the republicans to point out vividly to the public (as though it were not perfectly obvious to the public) the Fascist tendencies of the New Deal toward government control over all our lives. Finally Henry (or whoever is writing these strange words so unlike the Iowa corn language) came out for an end of the economy of scarcity and announced his undying allegiance to a capitalism of plenty. He tried to blame the scarcity theories on everyone but the New Deal. But Henry (or someone) forgot to read all of the Vice Presidents past speeches and his performance while Secretary of Agriculture. He forgot that in the early days of the New Deal, the professors and "Poor Henry" thought that what was wrong with America was that we were over-produced; there were too many machines in factories. Henry forgot that it was he who killed off the pigs, told the farmers what to plant and what not to plant. For years the Vice President was under fire for his economy of scarcity. Now he has found out he was wrong all the time but wants someone else to be the whipping boy.

Apparently since Henry has been visiting with the professors he has come around to agreeing with Harry Hopkins that "the people are too dumb to understand." Mrs. C. E. Jones returned home Sunday from Columbus, where she had been visiting her daughter, son-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson. Mrs. Anderson and daughters returned with her for a week's visit. OLD PAPERS at Frontier office.

Miss Minnie Sperla and Miss Rose Furch, of Buffalo, N. Y., who are traveling to the west coast on horseback, were in the city Tuesday. The two girls left Buffalo on May 16th and expect to arrive in Los Angeles, Cal., around the last of September. They are making the trip for the benefit of their health, being advised by physicians to get out in the open air and stay out.

Mrs. Mable Gatz and Mrs. Boy Gatz entertained eleven guests at a breakfast at Mrs. Mable Gatz's home on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Tena Clift, who will leave soon for California, where she will make her home.

A group of relatives and friends entertained at a post nuptial miscellaneous shower and picnic in the City Park on Sunday in honor of Miss Grace Pribil, who will be married on August 24, to Floyd Wilson, of Page.

Sgt. Albert Derickson, of Fort Knox, Kentucky, came Monday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Derickson and other relatives and friends here.

Christ the Teacher It is an obvious truth that most students quickly forget a great deal of what they learn. This is due in a large measure to the nature of their studies, since they contain a confused jumble of dates, words, sentences, and half-formed ideas, mixed in with what is really worth while. For this reason teachers often stress one point in their entire course, and are satisfied if this one point is remembered by their students. Jesus Christ, because He was God as well as Man, was and is the world's greatest teacher. For three years He instructed His twelve students; twelve unlettered men, twelve students who would cause any professor of the modern era to throw up his hands in disgust. Christ instructed them without texts, without writing, without abstruse theses, without scholarly lectures, for the majority of His students could neither read nor write. Their understanding was limited to things little more abstract than fish, sails, nets, and favorable winds. But Christ taught them only one thing; to know Himself. His classroom was the open countryside through the hills of Palestine, and He was the Teacher. "I am the Truth," He said, "and the Truth shall make you free." In Him was the wisdom of the ages, the Truth which alone would free man from the misery and slavery of error and sin. In a few simple words Christ taught His Apostles the one thing He wished them to remember. This was the course of study He gave to the leaders of His Church, the knowledge they were to pass on to us. How well they learned what He taught them is evident. After His Ascension into Heaven, leaving them to teach the world what He had taught them, they did not hesitate long. They had been taught Truth itself, and now they remembered and taught the same Truth. They taught and preached Christ. Though the Apostles were ignorant men in the eyes of the erudite, they know Christ. Knowing Him they knew the truth, and therefore everything worth knowing. That was true education. What a contrast to the modern student who knows practically everything the Apostles were ignorant of, yet knows little of the only thing they knew! Anything but Christ! The effete student is crammed with everything but the Truth which Christ taught His
